Closing Appeal Made For Levy

Hartman Stresses Need Of Tax To Avoid Large School Deficit

City Schools Superintendent George Hartman today issued a final appeal to Circleville voters for approval of an additional operating levy proposed for the school system. The proposal will appear on the ballot next Tuesday.

The city schools head reviewed the gloomy financial picture facing the system unless additional revenue is obtained in the near future. He also emphasized the money-saving policies followed by the school system, and assured the public that money raised through the proposed levy would be spent locally.

Hartman voiced thanks for the support already apparent for the levy—2.3 mills additional for five years.

* * *

SHE SAID:

"The Circleville city board of education needs more money to operate a growing school system.

"In 1946, there were 1,576 pupils enrolled in the Circleville city schools. In the last 10 years, the schools have grown over 1,000 pupils to a present total of 2,587. Our enumeration tells us that we can count on more than 100 additional pupils next year, and more if the latest Du Pont expansion plan brings many new families to the city.

"Your board of education needs to balance the budget, which now forecasts a deficit of $60,000 for the period between Jan. 1, 1957, and Jan. 1, 1958. The proposed 2.3 mills will produce $48,300. We have to try to save the rest with economy measures on the use of heat, light, and supplies.

"Basically, we cannot cut back anywhere else. Our payroll is fixed by contract—94 teachers and 12 custodians for an annual payroll of $420,000. Our total income from all sources for the same period will be $449,161.13.

"When we spend over $10,000 to provide free taxes, over $10,000 for fuel, and over $6,000 for substitute teachers—to name a few large items besides salaries — you can easily see why the schools need more money to operate a growing system.

"CAN Circleville afford a tax increase to operate its schools?

"Let's look at some up-to-date figures furnished recently by the Bureau of Educational Research at Ohio State University. Reporting on the state's 136 city school districts, the average city taxpayer in Ohio is paying $16.79 yearly for each $1,000 of real esate valuation for operating its schools.

"Circleville is paying each $1,000 of real estate for the operation of its Most people are willing that the schools in Circle

More Jurors Sought In Cincy Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — The tedious job of selecting a jury to try Robert V. Lyons on a charge of first degree murder went into its second day today after what defense attorney William F. Hopkins called "quite a run of luck."

Hopkins referred to the fact that seven persons—four women and three men — were seated tentatively on the jury Thursday.

Hopkins said he did not expect such rapid procedure to continue.

The 43-year-old Lyons is charged wih the fatal stabbing last April 11 of Mrs. Audrey Evers Pugh, an attractive 34-year-old society matron.

Lyons was a water meter reader at the time. He was not charged with the crime until 45 days after it occurred although he was questioned several imes. Police said he made a statement, but later repudiated it, that he stabbed Mrs. Pugh because she reprimanded him for coming to the wrong door at her home and then slapped him. His statement said he had followed her into the kitchen after she said "don't make a fool of yourself."

Driver Training Up

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Department of Education reports that 44,945 students, representing 51 per cent of the eligible number, took driver training courses in Ohio schools last year.

Voters Seen Solving Street Light Problem

COLUMBUS (AP) — Whether the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio will set interim street lighting rates that Ohio Edison Co. can charge Massillon won't be decided until after the Nov. 6 election.

By then the entire question of who should pay for the street lighting may become meaningless, it developed at a commission hearing Thursday.

The electric company is protesting a new light rate ordinance passed Aug. 6 by Massillon city council. It provides that residential and commercial electric users pay the bill for lighting Massillon streets.

During the hearing, City Solicitor Norman Putman said the city could not pay for street lighting. He said 7 per cent was added to residential bills and 10 per cent to commercial bills to pay for street lighting.

Noisy Plan Set To Get Out Vote

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Mayor Frank X. Kryzan has announced a noisy plan for getting out the vote next Tuesday.

In a proclamation he asked that between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. —

Fire trucks and police cruisers sound their sirens.

Churches ring bells.

Air raid sirens, let 'em blast.

Eden Silent On Compliance To U.N. Demand

British Chief Refuses To Reply To Resolution Calling For Truce

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden refused oday to give an immediate decision on a U. N. call for a cease-fire in the Middle East, and the Labor party warned that unofficial strikes may sweep the country unless he speaks out soon.

Eden told the House of Commons he had not yet had time to receive, much less study, the proceedings of the U. N. General Assembly in New York.

Briain's Labor leaders, in both the political and trade union branches of the movement, have stressed that labor will not approve "industrial action" as a weapon against Eden's policies. The party, however, is attempting to organize a mass popular protest of "law—not war."

Eden's refusal to commit himself at once on the U. N. actions touched off another angry scene in the House of Commons—the second in as many days—with Laborites demanding he "resign."

Aneurin Bevan, speaking as one of labor's recognized leaders, told Eden:

* * *

"THE VAST majority of the U. N. Assembly has condemned our action in being at war. It is going to be extremely difficult for many of us to restrain action in the country. Will not the government help us a bit?

"If Parliament as a forum of popular expression is to be denied an opportunity of considering this grave matter, what answer have we got for people outside?"

Eden was under mounting pressure to find a face - saving way out of he hostilities.

After bitter debate in the House of Commons, Eden won four votes of confidence on the government's action in the Middle East. But the voting — ranging from 324-255 to 320-253 — was on strict party lines, and London newspapers estimated that at least 30 of the prime minister's own Conservative followers in the House felt he made a mistake in acting outside the United Nations.

CHS Kittens Earn 3rd Championship, Defeat WCH 21-6

Circleville High School's junior varsity footballers, the Kittens, earned their third consecutive South Central Ohio Reserve League championship Thursday evening when they defeated the Washington C. H. junior gridders, 21 to 6.

The Kittens' victory was sparked by two long touchdown runs by halfback Ray Phifer and one by halfback Larry Hannahs.

Coach Dick Boyd's reserve crew racked up several records with yesterday's win. One of the records is that the Kittens have not lost a game to a league opponent in the last three years.

The CHS junior gridders' last defeat was a close 13 to 9 non-league loss to Chillicothe in 1954.

The complete story of the championship victory is on page 13.

Budapest Sees New Tension After Soviets Shift Troops

BUDAPEST (AP) — Tension gripped Budapest today in the wake of fresh Soviet troop movements into Hungary, but Premier Imre Nagy's government sought to minimize the gravity of the situation.

A government spokesman said this morning no new Russian troops had entered Hungary after an estimated two Soviet divisions poured across the border from Russia Thursday.

The spokesman said the situation which was "extremely grave" Thursday night had "relaxed" today. But the Budapest population waited anxiously to see if the Russians would move again.

News of the Soviet action appeared to unite the people more closely behind Nagy.

The strong revolutionary national committee in rebel - controlled Gyoer announced an end to the general strike throughout the nation. The committee said Nagy's government had fulfilled all the rebel demands as far as possible and to continue the strike would only endanger the success of the rebellion.

The Soviet troop move came in the wake of Nagy's announcement that Hungary was pulling out of the Kremlin - dominated Warsaw pact and claiming neutral freedom from any power bloc.

The government meanwhile prepared to resign today and make way temporarily for a small "inner cabinet" of experts under Nagy.

Nagy quickly informed the United Nations of the Soviet military movements and placed Hungary under U.N. protection as a neutral country.

Soviet Embassy representatives assured the premier the troop movements were only a regrouping and not aggressive. They said their forces had ringed Hungarian airfields to ensure evacuation of wounded Soviet soldiers and dependents. Russian families were seen leaving the Soviet embassy during the night.

Ike, Adlai Debate Middle East

Stevenson Says Eisenhower Could Have Averted Crisis

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson believes President Eisenhower could have averted the war in Egypt.

In a nationwide television and radio reply to Eisenhower's speech over similar facilities Wednesday, Stevenson declared that "the condition which confronts us is stark and simple—Our Mideastern policy is at absolute dead end.

"We have alienated our chief European allies," he said. "We have alienated Israel. We have alienated Egypt and the Arab countries. And in the U. N. our main associate in Middle Eastern matters now appears to be Communist Russia — in the very week when the Red army has been shooting down the brave people of Hungary and Poland.

"I doubt if ever before in our diplomatic history has any policy been such an abysmal, such a complete and such a catastrophic failure.

* * *

"AS LATE as the summer of 1955 at the Geneva conference, if the President had taken an insistent stand against the shipment of Communist arms to Egypt, I am convinced that the Communists would not have risked arming Egypt as they have.

"Had the Eisenhower administration taken a firm stand in the Middle East, had it aided Israel with arms and territorial guarantees, we might, I believe, have been able to prevent the present outbreak of hostilities. And if this government had not alternately appeased and provoked Egypt, I do think we would command more confidence there and in the Arab world."

Then, in a subsequent address to a police-estimated crowd of from 12,000 to 14,000 persons, which gave him an ear-splitting ovation in the Memorial Auditorium, Stevenson called this "a period of grave decision."

"America," he said, "must now move boldly to end the war, to restore the Western alliance and to seek a new basis for our future relations with the Soviet Union."

He suggested that the Republicans are shifting campaign strategy in the closing days of the campaign.

Eisenhower Believes Nation Has Chosen 'Path Of Honor'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Thursday night his administration has chosen "a path of honor" in the Middle East crisis by refusing to "condone armed aggression."

And he told an overflow crowd in Philadelphia's 16,000-seat Convention Hall that because he is convinced he picked the right path he is "undisturbed by the strident voices of those few who seem to be seeking to turn world events to political profit."

Speaking also to a nationwide television-radio audience, that was as close as Eisenhower came to replying to sharp criticism which Adlai E. Stevenson has been hurling at him regarding the Middle East situation.

It was Eisenhower's last major speech of the campaign and he did fire back at Stevenson once again on two other issues, without naming his Democratic rival. He said his opponent is advocating "a design for disaster" in these times in calling for steps toward ending hydrogen bomb testing and proposing that thought be given to terminating the military draft.

* * *

THE CROWD in Convention Hall shouted "No, no," when Eisenhower put this question against the background of the current international tension:

"Would we today feel safe or secure as a nation if we — some time in the past — had already ceased perfecting our military weapons and even abandoned our military draft?"

Then he went on to say:

"That is no formula for peace. It is a design for disaster."

Referring apparently to Israel, Britain and France and to their armed action in Egypt, Eisenhower said:

"We value deeply and lastingly the bonds with those great nations, those great friends, with whom we now so plainly disagree.

"I, for one, am confident that those bonds will do more than survive. They can and must grow to new and greater strength.

"But this we know above all: there are some firm principles that cannot bend—they can only break. And we shall not break ours."

News Briefs

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — A mysterious house on a wooded hill in Buda was opened today by rebel partisans. They said they found it equipped with a "torture chamber" operated by the secret police. Nationalist rebels said it was believed the villa was used for the brainwashing of important political prisoners such as Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

GYOER, Hungary (AP) — Western newsmen were shown today a secret crematory, said by anti-Communist rebels to have been used by the state police for victims who did not survive their interrogation methods.

DAMASCUS (AP) — The Syrian government today severed diplomatic relations with Britain and France. The action marked a final break in relations with France, which ruled this country from 1920 to 1946 on the strength of a League of Nations mandate.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII has issued an encyclical letter expressing joy for release of Poland's and Hungary's cardinals and asking that prayers be offered for the Holy Land and the Middle East.

Turkish Custom Brings Pen Term From Ohio Judge

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 34-year-old Turkish engineer, Durson F. Eker, was sentenced Thursday to one to 20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary for beating up his wife.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur H. Day said, "He should thank his lucky stars that no more damage was done to this woman. He could have been here on a murder trial."

Eker was quoted as saying "in Turkey we gouge out the eyes of unfaithful wives."

The judge said Mrs. Eker had lived up to her marriage vows, and "even if she had done what her husband claimed, our laws do not give the husband the right to cut her or beat her up."

Stormy Weather Hitting In West

CHICAGO (AP) — Stormy weather hit western sections of the country today, bringing a touch of winter.

The Weather Bureau today issued special blizzard warning for extreme northwest Kansas, western Nebraska and western South Dakota.

The lash of snow and cold hit Colorado and Wyoming and the Weather Bureau saw little prospect of a letup before Friday night or Saturday. It was around zero in some sections of Wyoming and Montana as cold air and snow hit the central Rockies.

PUCO Orders Phone Firm To 'Show Cause' Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio today ordered the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. to show why it should not be ordered to provide emergency telephone service in Portsmouth, New Boston and Scioto-ville.

Those communities in Scioto County have been without service since Oct. 16 when exchanges were shut down after stoning incidents.

The commission today ordered the company in for a public hearing next Wednesday.

One week ago the commission ordered the company to file a plan for setting up emergency service. Instead, the company challenged the commission's right to make such an order unless the company had a chance to be heard first.

Next week's hearing will give the company that chance. At a meeting Wednesday, the company flatly refused to provide emergency service unless it was assured there would be "ample" police protection for workers.

The order came as negotiations between the company and the striking Communications workers of America were to resume in Cleveland.

Frank A. Thernes, bargaining committee chairman of the CWA, said the union has accepted an Ohio Industrial Commission recommendation that issues in the 111-day strike be arbitrated.

Mixed comment continued to be heard on Gov. Frank J. Lausche's call for a special session of the Ohio Legislature to deal with the strike situation.

* * *

THE GOVERNOR called the session after the company refused to restore telephone service in the Portsmouth area, which has been without service 18 days.

A citizens group from Portsmouth had asked for the special session to consider legislation making arbitration compulsory in labor disputes and banning utilities strikes.

The governor's call for a special session Nov. 9 to ban strikes by utilities and require arbitration of grievances brought these comments:

State Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek (D - Cuyahoga), Senate minority leader—"I think something like that ought to wait until the next regular session in January.

"There is a deep philosophical question involving peoples' rights. These matters should not be settled in undo haste."

State Rep. James J. McGettrick (D - Cuyahoga), House minority leader—The compulsory artibration proposal "might be all right." As to the strike ban, "I think the Legislature has no business in that field."

State Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens), Senate majority leaders—"The governor is simply passing the buck. There is sufficient legislation on the books for him to maintain law and order in the state of Ohio, if he honestly wants to. Legislation of that importance requires careful consideration and it could not be resolved in a day or so."

Mechem did not detail what he meant by "sufficient legislation on the books."

Nonoperating Rail Workers Get New Pact

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Railway Mediation Board announced today that the nation's railroads and 11 nonoperating unions, representing some 700,000 workers, have reached agreement on a long term wage contract.

The board said the new pact calls for a first-year wage increase of 10 cents an hour effective Nov. 1, 7 cents an hour Nov. 1, 1957, and another 7 cents an hour Nov. 1, 1958.

The railroads agreed to apply an additional 2½-cent wage increase, or $4.25 a month per employe, toward the cost of an employe dependents hospital, medical and surgical plan.

Negotiators said a cost-of-living escalator clause is provided. Pay rates will increase or decrease a cent an hour for each half-point change in the government's cost-of-living index. Adjustments will be made beginning May 1, 1957 and each six months thereafter.

Gotham Newsmen Getting Pay Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Newspaper Guild and the city's seven major daily newspapers have agreed on a two-year contract calling for a nine per cent wage package over that period.

The new city-wide pact means a $5 weekly pay raise this year and $4 next year on the basis of an average $100 a week salary. Present minimum wages range from $50.50 for copy boys to $141.50 for experienced newsmen.

Ohio Sending Aid

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio contributions to a $5,000 fund for victims of recent fighting in Hungary will be followed with shipments of foodstuffs from the state's Christian Rural Overseas Program, the Rev. Clyde N. Rogers, co-director, reports.

OU Given Chapel

ATHENS (AP)—Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University, Thursday announced a gift of $250,000 from John W. Galbreath of Columbus for an interdenominational chapel on the campus.

Bender Hears Dulles Plans To Quit Post

DAYTON (AP)—U. S. Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) said here Thursday night that he had "heard" that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles intends to resign.

A spokesman with Dulles at the United Nations General Assembly in New York denied his.

Bender emphasized that he had heard the reports from "responsible sources" for some time and that they were not connected with the Israel-Egypt crisis or any recent development in world affairs.

"I have heard the reports for more than a year," the senator said. "Dulles has been wanting to resign for a long time. He is a man in his 70s and a dedicated man. I could understand why he should want to resign for reasons other than any world problems."

World Is Changing For U.S., Russians

When the dust settles from the current upheavals in Eastern Europe and the Middle East, the world will not be the same.

So says James Marlow, news analyst for the Associated Press. He believes that "the familiar world is coming apart for both the United States and Russia . . . Russia had satellites it thought it could control; the United States had allies it thought it could lead . . . Both will have to re-examine their thinking."

Strategists Study Effect Of Mid-East On U.S. Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic strategists disagreed today about the probable impact of the flaming Middle Eastern crisis on next Tuesday's presidential election.

Democrats contended the fighting in Egypt had tarnished the "peace" issue on which the Republicans have leaned heavily.

They said events had added weight to Adlai E. Stevenson's contentions that President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policies have led to "catastrophic failure."

Republicans countered that the gravity of the situation will turn previously undecided voters to Eisenhower as a man equipped by his military and White House experience to deal with the crisis.

They pointed to Eisenhower's promise that "there will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities" as shoring up their claim that Eisenhower represents the best hope for peace.

NEVERTHELESS, there was some evident uneasiness within the GOP camp as to the effect on the Jewish vote of the Eisenhower administration's resolution in the United Nations Security Council.

An intensive telephone poll by the Republican National Committee was said to have indicated Eisenhower generally has maintained or picked up strength.

At the same time, however, there were reports of some loss of strength for the Republican ticket (at least for some senatorial candidates) among Jewish voters in the larger cities.

One of Stevenson's strategists predicted this vote will make itself felt against Eisenhower in New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Boston, Miami, Detroit and in New Jersey.

On the other hand, he said that Eisenhower's protests against the British and French attacks on Egypt may have gained some votes for the GOP in Midwestern sections where there has been opposition to economic and military aid to those countries.

French Report Softening-Up Job Completed

Paris Officials Give No Hint Of Timing; Israel Occupies Gaza

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The French Defense Ministry said tonight the stage is set for British-French invasion of the Suez Canal zone.

A communique from Paris said aerial and naval softening-up attacks are over, and that air and naval actions henceforth will be directed at supporting occupation of the canal zone. The ministry gave no hint when this might happen.

The ministry said the purpose of air and naval bombardment thus far had been to knock out Egyptian air strength and to clear the seas north and south of the Suez Canal.

This objective has been virtually achieved; it said.

The Paris announcement came after Israel had announced occupation of the entire Gaza strip and claimed other smashing victories in ground action against Egyptian forces.

The French said Egypt's air force had been "completely put out of fighting condition" by repeated poundings from combined British-French air units.

Meanwhile, Egyptian army headquarters announced a fishing vessel sunk by British-French air bombardment has blocked the southern entrance to the Suez Canal.

It was the second vessel reported sunk in the 103-mile waterway causing obstruction to navigation. The Egyptians said Thursday the Egyptian warship Akka was sunk near Lake Timsah, midway in the canal, by British-French planes.

* * *

THE BRITISH contend their bombs only damaged the Akka and that it was later scuttled by the Egyptians athwart the canal.

Today's communique said three British planes were shot down during 42 raids in the 24 hours up to 8 a. m. today "on thickly populated towns."

Martial law has been declared throughout Egypt and President Nasser has assumed all the extraordinary powers of a military commander over this nation of 22 million.

In Rome, a Middle East diplomatic source reported today that Nasser has resigned, but several hours of checking brought no support of the rumor.

With strict censorship operating in Egypt, the Associated Press bureau there apparently was unable to comment on the report. The Egyptian Embassy in London denied it. British government sources tended to discount it.

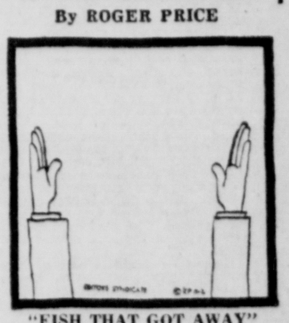

A spokesman at Israeli army headquarters in Tel Aviv reported the surrender of Gaza City, Egyptian headquarters for the Gaza strip, after a tank-led Israeli task force smashed into the city.

The surrender put the entire strip in Israeli hands and ended a 24-hour fight for the region. Israeli troops Thursday captured

I thought of this Droodle while I was visiting the new Tropical Fish Department of the Schwine-Kitzenger Institute and I wish you could see the amzing collection of undersea creatures over there. They've got a fish that looks like a cow, a fish that looks like a horse, a fish that looks like Mrs. Schwine and next week a Scientist in Hawaii is going to send them a very rare speciman, a fish that looks like a fish. Unfortunately, they're cramped for space and they have to use Mrs. Schwine's Washing Machine for an aquarium. She doesn't mind, but the paddles going around have gotten the fish Punchy. Only fish I ever saw with cauliflower fins.

Closing Appeal Made For Levy

Hartman Stresses Need Of Tax To Avoid Large School Deficit

City Schools Superintendent George Hartman today issued a final appeal to Circleville voters for approval of an additional operating levy proposed for the school system. The proposal will appear on the ballot next Tuesday.

The city schools head reviewed the gloomy financial picture facing the system unless additional revenue is obtained in the near future. He also emphasized the money-saving policies followed by the school system, and assured the public that money raised through the proposed levy would be spent locally.

Hartman voiced thanks for the support already apparent for the levy—2.3 mills additional for five years.

SAYS HE SAID:

"The Circleville city board of education needs more money to operate a growing school system.

"In 1946, there were 1,576 pupils enrolled in the Circleville city schools. In the last 10 years, the schools have grown over 1,000 pupils to a present total of 2,587. Our enumeration tells us that we can count on more than 100 additional pupils next year, and more if the West Du Pont expansion plan brings many new families to the city.

"Your board of education needs to balance the budget, which now forecasts a deficit of $60,000 for the period between Jan. 1, 1957, and Jan. 1, 1958. The proposed 2.3 mills will produce $48,300. We have to try to save the rest with economy measures on the use of heat, light, and supplies.

"Basically, we cannot cut back anywhere else. Our payroll is fixed by contract—94 teachers and 12 custodians for an annual payroll of $420,000. Our total income from all sources for the same period will be $449,161.13.

"When we spend over $10,000 to provide free taxes, over $10,000 for fuel, and over $6,000 for substitute teachers—to name a few large items besides salaries — you can easily see why the schools need more money to operate a growing system.

"CAN Circleville afford a tax increase to operate its schools?

"Let's look at some up-to-date figures furnished recently by the Bureau of Educational Research at Ohio State University. Reporting on the state's 136 city school districts, the average city taxpayer in Ohio is paying $16.79 yearly for each $1,000 of real esate valuation for operating its schools.

"Circleville is paying each $1,000 of real estate for the operation of its Most people are willing that the schools in Circle

More Jurors Sought In Cincy Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — The tedious job of selecting a jury to try Robert V. Lyons on a charge of first degree murder went into its second day today after what defense attorney William F. Hopkins called "quite a run of luck."

Hopkins referred to the fact that seven persons—four women and three men — were seated tentatively on the jury Thursday.

Hopkins said he did not expect such rapid procedure to continue.

The 43-year-old Lyons is charged wih the fatal stabbing last April 11 of Mrs. Audrey Evers Pugh, an attractive 34-year-old society matron.

Lyons was a water meter reader at the time. He was not charged with the crime until 45 days after it occurred although he was questioned several imes. Police said he made a statement, but later repudiated it, that he stabbed Mrs. Pugh because she reprimanded him for coming to the wrong door at her home and then slapped him. His statement said he had followed her into the kitchen after she said "don't make a fool of yourself."

CHS Kittens Earn 3rd Championship, Defeat WCH 21-6

Circleville High School's junior varsity footballers, the Kittens, earned their third consecutive South Central Ohio Reserve League championship Thursday evening when they defeated the Washington C. H. junior gridders, 21 to 6.

The Kittens' victory was sparked by two long touchdown runs by halfback Ray Phifer and one by halfback Larry Hannahs.

Coach Dick Boyd's reserve crew racked up several records with yesterday's win. One of the records is that the Kittens have not lost a game to a league opponent in the last three years.

The CHS junior gridders' last defeat was a close 13 to 9 non-league loss to Chillicothe in 1954.

The complete story of the championship victory is on page 13.

Voters Seen Solving Street Light Problem

COLUMBUS (AP) — Whether the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio will set interim street lighting rates that Ohio Edison Co. can charge Massillon won't be decided until after the Nov. 6 election.

By then the entire question of who should pay for the street lighting may become meaningless, it developed at a commission hearing Thursday.

The electric company is protesting a new light rate ordinance passed Aug. 6 by Massillon city Council. It provides that residential and commercial electric users pay the bill for lighting Massillon streets.

During the hearing, City Solicitor Norman Putman said the city could not pay for street lighting. He said 7 per cent was added to residential bills and 10 per cent to commercial bills to pay for street lighting.

Driver Training Up

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Department of Education reports that 44,945 students, representing 51 per cent of the eligible number, took driver training courses in Ohio schools last year.

Noisy Plan Set To Get Out Vote

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Mayor Frank X. Kryzan has announced a noisy plan for getting out the vote next Tuesday.

In a proclamation he asked that between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. —

Fire trucks and police cruisers sound their sirens.

Churches ring bells.

Air raid sirens, let 'em blast.

Budapest Sees New Tension After Soviets Shift Troops

BUDAPEST (AP) — Tension gripped Budapest today in the wake of fresh Soviet troop movements into Hungary, but Premier Imre Nagy's government sought to minimize the gravity of the situation.

A government spokesman said this morning no new Russian troops had entered Hungary after an estimated two Soviet divisions poured across the border from Russia Thursday.

The spokesman said the situation which was "extremely grave" Thursday night had "relaxed" today. But the Budapest population waited anxiously to see if the Russians would move again.

News of the Soviet action appeared to unite the people more closely behind Nagy.

The strong revolutionary national committee in rebel - controlled Gyoer announced an end to the general strike throughout the nation. The committee said Nagy's government had fulfilled all the rebel demands as far as possible and to continue the strike would only endanger the success of the rebellion.

The Soviet troop move came in the wake of Nagy's announcement that Hungary was pulling out of the Kremlin - dominated Warsaw pact and claiming neutral freedom from any power bloc.

The government meanwhile prepared to resign today and make way temporarily for a small "inner cabinet" of experts under Nagy.

Nagy quickly informed the United Nations of the Soviet military movements and placed Hungary under U.N. protection as a neutral country.

Soviet Embassy representatives assured the premier the troop movements were only a regrouping and not aggressive. They said their forces had ringed Hungarian airfields to ensure evacuation of wounded Soviet soldiers and dependents. Russian families were seen leaving the Soviet embassy during the night.

News Briefs

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — A mysterious house on a wooded hill in Buda was opened today by rebel partisans. They said they found it equipped with a "torture chamber" operated by the secret police. Nationalist rebels said it was believed the villa was used for the brainwashing of important political prisoners such as Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

GYOER, Hungary (AP) — Western newsmen were shown today a secret crematory, said by anti-Communist rebels to have been used by the state police for victims who did not survive their interrogation methods.

DAMASCUS (AP) — The Syrian government today severed diplomatic relations with Britain and France. The action marked a final break in relations with France, which ruled this country from 1920 to 1946 on the strength of a League of Nations mandate.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII has issued an encyclical letter expressing joy for release of Poland's and Hungary's cardinals and asking that prayers be offered for the Holy Land and the Middle East.

Turkish Custom Brings Pen Term From Ohio Judge

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 34-year-old Turkish engineer, Durson F. Eker, was sentenced Thursday to one to 20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary for beating up his wife.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur H. Day said, "He should thank his lucky stars that no more damage was done to this woman. He could have been here on a murder trial."

Eker was quoted as saying "in Turkey we gouge out the eyes of unfaithful wives."

The judge said Mrs. Eker had lived up to her marriage vows, and "even if she had done what her husband claimed, our laws do not give the husband the right to cut her or beat her up."

Stormy Weather Hitting In West

CHICAGO (AP) — Stormy weather hit western sections of the country today, bringing a touch of winter.

The Weather Bureau today issued special blizzard warning for extreme northwest Kansas, western Nebraska and western South Dakota.

The lash of snow and cold hit Colorado and Wyoming and the Weather Bureau saw little prospect of a letup before Friday night or Saturday. It was around zero in some sections of Wyoming and Montana as cold air and snow hit the central Rockies.

PUCO Orders Phone Firm To 'Show Cause' Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio today ordered the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. to show why it should not be ordered to provide emergency telephone service in Portsmouth, New Boston and Scioto-ville.

Those communities in Scioto County have been without service since Oct. 16 when exchanges were shut down after stoning incidents.

The commission today ordered the company in for a public hearing next Wednesday.

One week ago the commission ordered the company to file a plan for setting up emergency service. Instead, the company challenged the commission's right to make such an order unless the company had a chance to be heard first.

Next week's hearing will give the company that chance. At a meeting Wednesday, the company flatly refused to provide emergency service unless it was assured there would be "ample" police protection for workers.

The order came as negotiations between the company and the striking Communications workers of America were to resume in Cleveland.

Frank A. Thernes, bargaining committee chairman of the CWA, said the union has accepted an Ohio Industrial Commission recommendation that issues in the 111-day strike be arbitrated.

Mixed comment continued to be heard on Gov. Frank J. Lausche's call for a special session of the Ohio Legislature to deal with the strike situation.

* * *

THE GOVERNOR called the session after the company refused to restore telephone service in the Portsmouth area, which has been without service 18 days.

A citizens group from Portsmouth had asked for the special session to consider legislation making arbitration compulsory in labor disputes and banning utilities strikes.

The governor's call for a special session Nov. 9 to ban strikes by utilities and require arbitration of grievances brought these comments:

State Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek (D - Cuyahoga), Senate minority leader—"I think something like that ought to wait until the next regular session in January.

"There is a deep philosophical question involving peoples' rights. These matters should not be settled in undo haste."

State Rep. James J. McGettrick (D - Cuyahoga), House minority leader—The compulsory artibration proposal "might be all right." As to the strike ban, "I think the Legislature has no business in that field."

State Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens), Senate majority leaders—"The governor is simply passing the buck. There is sufficient legislation on the books for him to maintain law and order in the state of Ohio, if he honestly wants to. Legislation of that importance requires careful consideration and it could not be resolved in a day or so."

Mechem did not detail what he meant by "sufficient legislation on the books."

Nonoperating Rail Workers Get New Pact

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Railway Mediation Board announced today that the nation's railroads and 11 nonoperating unions, representing some 700,000 workers, have reached agreement on a long term wage contract.

The board said the new pact calls for a first-year wage increase of 10 cents an hour effective Nov. 1, 7 cents an hour Nov. 1, 1957, and another 7 cents an hour Nov. 1, 1958.

The railroads agreed to apply an additional 2½-cent wage increase, or $4.25 a month per employe, toward the cost of an employe dependents hospital, medical and surgical plan.

Negotiators said a cost-of-living escalator clause is provided. Pay rates will increase or decrease a cent an hour for each half-point change in the government's cost-of-living index. Adjustments will be made beginning May 1, 1957 and each six months thereafter.

Gotham Newsmen Getting Pay Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Newspaper Guild and the city's seven major daily newspapers have agreed on a two-year contract calling for a nine per cent wage package over that period.

The new city-wide pact means a $5 weekly pay raise this year and $4 next year on the basis of an average $100 a week salary. Present minimum wages range from $50.50 for copy boys to $141.50 for experienced newsmen.

Bender Hears Dulles Plans To Quit Post

DAYTON (AP)—U. S. Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio) said here Thursday night that he had "heard" that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles intends to resign.

A spokesman with Dulles at the United Nations General Assembly in New York denied his.

Bender emphasized that he had heard the reports from "responsible sources" for some time and that they were not connected with the Israel-Egypt crisis or any recent development in world affairs.

"I have heard the reports for more than a year," the senator said. "Dulles has been wanting to resign for a long time. He is a man in his 70s and a dedicated man. I could understand why he should want to resign for reasons other than any world problems."

World Is Changing For U.S., Russians

When the dust settles from the current upheavals in Eastern Europe and the Middle East, the world will not be the same.

So says James Marlow, news analyst for the Associated Press. He believes that "the familiar world is coming apart for both the United States and Russia . . . Russia had satellites it thought it could control; the United States had allies it thought it could lead . . . Both will have to re-examine their thinking."

Strategists Study Effect Of Mid-East On U.S. Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic strategists disagreed today about the probable impact of the flaming Middle Eastern crisis on next Tuesday's presidential election.

Democrats contended the fighting in Egypt had tarnished the "peace" issue on which the Republicans have leaned heavily.

They said events had added weight to Adlai E. Stevenson's contentions that President Eisenhower's Middle Eastern policies have led to "catastrophic failure."

Republicans countered that the gravity of the situation will turn previously undecided voters to Eisenhower as a man equipped by his military and White House experience to deal with the crisis.

They pointed to Eisenhower's promise that "there will be no United States involvement in these present hostilities" as shoring up their claim that Eisenhower represents the best hope for peace.

NEVERTHELESS, there was some evident uneasiness within the GOP camp as to the effect on the Jewish vote of the Eisenhower administration's resolution in the United Nations Security Council.

An intensive telephone poll by the Republican National Committee was said to have indicated Eisenhower generally has maintained or picked up strength.

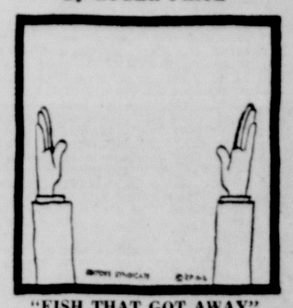

At the same time, however, there were reports of some loss of strength for the Republican ticket (at least for some senatorial candidates) among Jewish voters in the larger cities.

One of Stevenson's strategists predicted this vote will make itself felt against Eisenhower in New York City, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Boston, Miami, Detroit and in New Jersey.

On the other hand, he said that Eisenhower's protests against the British and French attacks on Egypt may have gained some votes for the GOP in Midwestern sections where there has been opposition to economic and military aid to those countries.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"FISH THAT GOT AWAY"

I thought of this Droodle while I was visiting the new Tropical Fish Department of the Schwine-Kitzenger Institute and I wish you could see the amzing collection of undersea creatures over there. They've got a fish that looks like a cow, a fish that looks like a horse, a fish that looks like Mrs. Schwine and next week a Scientist in Hawaii is going to send them a very rare speciman, a fish that looks like a fish. Unfortunately, they're cramped for space and they have to use Mrs. Schwine's Washing Machine for an aquarium. She doesn't mind, but the paddles going around have gotten the fish Punchy. Only fish I ever saw with cauliflower fins.

Hartman Makes Closing Appeal For School Tax

very good in spite of the low cost per pupil in the operation of the school.

"Much of the advantage, without loss of quality, comes from the sacrifice employes make in working for lower salaries.

"It is very gratifying to receive the whole-hearted support that Circleville is giving this school operating levy. Circleville is one of the finest cities of its size in the whole United States. Did you ever wonder what makes it so good? We feel that Circleville is better because of three main reasons:

"1. We find more good homes in Circleville than you can find in any other city this size.

"2. You have as fine a school system as can be found anywhere, if you are just willing to keep it good.

"3. You have more excellent churches with a far better percentage of the population going to church than most cities this size.

* * *

"LET ANY one of those three deteriorate, and Circleville will become a poorer place to live and, anytime you can improve any one of the three, Circleville will become a better place to live. All people in a community benefit from good homes, good schools and good churches.

"Every dollar raised from this levy will be spent right here in Circleville, educating the boys and girls in this community. You can do nothing that will give more security and happiness for the children of Circleville.

"A parent might leave a million dollars that can be wiped out over night with a depression or a bad business venture. Giving the child an education is different; it is permanent; it is something that he will have and use all his life; it is something no one can take away from him; it is something in America that even the poorest boy can get free that will give him more opportunity for a more useful life than money can buy.

"Please vote yes for the money to educate our children."

French Report Softening-Up Job Completed

Rafah, the only other major center in the strip.

THE GAZA territory, a 25 by 8 mile finger of land separating the southern end of Israel from the Mediterranean, has long been a center of Israeli-Egyptian border troubles. Elimination of Fedayeen (commando) bases in the area was one of Israel's objectives in its thrust into Egypt Monday.

The British Air Ministry in London said Royal Air Force heavy and medium bombers were keeping up their nonstop strikes against the Egyptian air bases today.

"None of our aircraft has been reported missing," a British spokesman said.

Nasser hinted that the main body of Egypt's forces in the Sinai were being pulled back to defend the Suez Canal and the Nile Delta.

The French Defense Ministry said 105 Egyptian planes had either been destroyed or made unusable. By one unofficial estimate, this was about a fourth of the Egyptian air force.

The Israeli Embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties (killed, wounded and captured) at 5,000. "Israeli casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

Egypt stepped up a guerrilla campaign. Israel said a large number of Fedayeens entered Israel's Negev desert Thursday night, blowing up a number of vehicles and irrigation pipes.

British and French naval units were reported closing in on both ends of the Suez Canal.

The two nations said they would occupy the canal points of Port Said, Suez and Ismailia, but insisted their occupation would be only temporary.

Prince Of Peace Contests Sunday

Several local contests will be held Sunday in this year's Prince of Peace competition.

Winners of the local contests will participate later in the Pickaway County contest as the next step in eliminations. Statewide, the contest is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Sandra Imogene Gibbs, apparently the only contestant in the city of Circleville, will automatically become the winner Sunday as the lone entry in a local contest to be held at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Another local contest, scheduled Sunday for 8 p. m., will be held in Pickaway Township School. It is being sponsored by the school's public speaking class.

ROBERT Seward, superintendent of the school, and Elizabeth Amsted, teacher, are co-chairmen of the local contest.

Contestants, all of Pickaway Township School, are: Pete Smith, Peggy Anderson, Mary Ellen Goeller and Sidney Graves.

Another local contest will be held Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in the Salem Methodist Church at Meade. The event is being sponsored jointly by Pickaway Township School and the church.

The Rev. Lester Taylor and Elizabeth Amsted are co-chairmen.

Contestants, all of Pickaway Township School, are: Barbara Ginther, Linda Miller, Linda Wilson and Mark List.

* * *

WINNERS OF local contests receive a bronze medal. Winners of the county contest will receive a silver medal, and winners of district contests gold medals. District winners will comptee in a semi-final contest in Columbus in January, and finals will be held at the Ohio Pastors' Convention on Wednesday, Jan. 30, 1957.

First prize in the contest will be $200 and a four-year free-tuition college scholarship. Second prize will be $100 and a two-year scholarship. Third prize is $75 and a one-year scholarship. Three additional awards of $50 each will be given runners-up. In addition, there will be an award of $50 for the best original essay used by a contestant.

Phone Employe Bound Over To Grand Jury

Union Striker Says He Injured Her In 'Shoving' Melee

Arthur Craven, an employe of the local telephone company, was bound over to the grand jury under $50 bond this morning in Circlevile Municipal Court.

The phone worker was bound over on an accusation of assault and battery, filed by Martha Lagrow, a local union member.

The union member claims she suffered a bruised shoulder in a "shoving" incident near the phone company building here October 23.

According to the affidavit, Mrs. Lagrow was grabbed by the arm and pushed.

A strike against the phone utility began more than three months ago, and pickets have been on duty at the Circleville exchange.

Columbus Man Fined, Jailed In City Court

Cases heard in Circleville Municipal Court today included a motorist who received the usual penalty for driving when under the influence of intoxicants and two motorists fined for speeding.

For the "drunk" driving accusation, Audrey Burl Greene, 30, Columbus, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended six months. He was arrested by city police.

The two speeders arrested by the state patrol are as follows:

Virginia L. Ouellette, 21, Detroit, Mich.; $25 and costs for speeding 75 in a 50 mile zone.

John L. Phifer, 62, Circleville; $15 and costs for speeding 65 in a 50 mile zone.

Youngster Killed

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Max Leroy Allen, 13, was crushed to death Thursday beneath the wheels of a freight train. Police said the youth was attempting to crawl under the standing freight when it started, catching him between the wheels.

U.S. Suspending Arms For Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. government today suspended shipments of military supplies to Israel pending decisions on Israel's role in the Middle East crisis.

The suspension order applies to supplies at the docks ready for loading as well as supplies which might be ready for shipment or en route to ports.

The impact on Israel's military capacity will not be very great—if indeed it is felt at all—in the immediate future.

Rotarians Warned That Minority, Conistent Voters, Rules Nation

Joining in the public appeal for a large voter turnout at next Tuesday's elections, Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff reminded Rotarians yesterday that the nation is actually governed by a minority, the consistent voters.

He was the main speaker at the weekly Rotary luncheon meeting and emphasized the importance of voting in a democracy.

Judge Radcliff pointed out that the percentage of eligible voters who cast ballots has been dwindling since the turn of the century. And he warned that the trend must be checked, lest the national scene change from that of two major parties to many "splinter" parties—and unstable government.

"American history shows that it is our habit not to vote for something we want to keep, but to vote to get rid of something we don't want!", Judge Radcliff said. Thus, he went on, a new philosophy must be developed in our voting habits, to insure regular representation at the polls.

* * *

LOOKING back over ironical turns taken by the nation's voting habits and electoral system, Judge Radcliff told Rotary how, since 1824, three U. S. presidents have been elected although they trailed in the popular vote.

He explained this was possible under the electoral college system. Judge Radcliff also pointed out:

DAV To Meet Monday At 8

Car Crashes Into Abutment; 2 Men Injured

Two Lockbourne Air Force Base men were injured in a one-car accident Thursday at 11:30 p. m. on Route 23 near the Pickaway - Franklin county line.

The two air force men, James R. McGee, 20, and Larry R. McGuire, 21, were both treated at the Lockbourne base hospital for bruises and lacerations. McGee was the driver of the auto.

Headed south, the McGee car struck an abutment dividing the highway, swerved off the road to the right, rolled over and crashed through a fence.

The vehicle traveled approximately 537 feet from the point where it first struck the abutment.

State Patrolman Gene Miller, who investigated, said the auto was heavily damaged.

Calf Said Missing

Fred Call, Mt. Sterling Route 3, reported to the Sheriff's office today that a tan and white guernsey calf was missing from his farm. Call said the calf probably wandered off.

Mistakes Of Naaman

Many times we may profit by the mistakes of others and consequently be made more careful ourselves. One of the most interesting stories in the Bible is the story of Naaman, a leper (2 Kings 5:1-14). He was captain of the Syrian army, a great man with his master, and honorable, but he was a "leper" (verse 1), and that spoiled it all.

There are many great men today, who also are "honorable." But if they are sinners that spoils it all. The leper was ceremonially unclean (Leviticus 14). His flesh was full of sores, the fingers rotted off, tongue cracked open, and he was not allowed to associate with other people. Sin of the soul is like leprosy of the body in that it defiles the mind and conscience, the heart and soul — the whole inner man (Titus 1:15). Only God could cure Naaman of his leprosy, and only Christ, the "Great Physician," can cure the sin sick soul. However, in his efforts to get healed of his leprosy Naaman made many mistakes. Sometimes people today make the same mistakes in trying to be cleansed of sin.

HE WENT TO THE WRONG PARTY

The Jewish maid in Naaman's home told her mistress that there was a "prophet" in Israel who could heal Naaman of his leprosy. However, at the suggestion of the king of Syria, Naaman went to the "king" of Israel, the wrong party. The maid said nothing about the king of Israel being able to heal anyone (2 Kings 5:4-6).

Likewise, many sinners now go to the wrong parties and places in seeking salvation. Some make the mistake of going to the Priest to be "absolved" from the guilt of sin, when no man has the power to forgive sin (Matt. 9:1-10). Christ is our only mediator (1 Tim. 2:5-6). Others make the mistake of going to the old law of Moses to find the terms of salvation for the Christian age. But we are not under the old covenant law (Col. 2:14; Eph. 2:14-16; Rom. 6:14; 7:1-4; 2 Cor. 3:6; Gal. 5:4). Christ is now the author of salvation (Heb. 5:8-9; 12:1-3). We must go to Christ and the New Testament. (More next week).

Hartman Makes Closing Appeal For School Tax

very good in spite of the low cost per pupil in the operation of the school.

"Much of the advantage, without loss of quality, comes from the sacrifice employes make in working for lower salaries.

"It is very gratifying to receive the whole-hearted support that Circleville is giving this school operating levy. Circleville is one of the finest cities of its size in the whole United States. Did you ever wonder what makes it so good? We feel that Circleville is better because of three main reasons:

"1. We find more good homes in Circleville than you can find in any other city this size.

"2. You have as fine a school system as can be found anywhere, if you are just willing to keep it good.

"3. You have more excellent churches with a far better percentage of the population going to church than most cities this size.

* * *

"LET ANY one of those three deteriorate, and Circleville will become a poorer place to live and, anytime you can improve any one of the three, Circleville will become a better place to live. All people in a community benefit from good homes, good schools and good churches.

"Every dollar raised from this levy will be spent right here in Circleville, educating the boys and girls in this community. You can do nothing that will give more security and happiness for the children of Circleville.

"A parent might leave a million dollars that can be wiped out over night with a depression or a bad business venture. Giving the child an education is different; it is permanent; it is something that he will have and use all his life; it is something no one can take away from him; it is something in America that even the poorest boy can get free that will give him more opportunity for a more useful life than money can buy.

"Please vote yes for the money to educate our children."

French Report Softening-Up Job Completed

Rafah, the only other major center in the strip.

* * *

THE GAZA territory, a 25 by 8 mile finger of land separating the southern end of Israel from the Mediterranean, has long been a center of Israeli-Egyptian border troubles. Elimination of Fedayeen (commando) bases in the area was one of Israel's objectives in its thrust into Egypt Monday.

The British Air Ministry in London said Royal Air Force heavy and medium bombers were keeping up their nonstop strikes against the Egyptian air bases today.

"None of our aircraft has been reported missing," a British spokesman said.

Nasser hinted that the main body of Egypt's forces in the Sinai were being pulled back to defend the Suez Canal and the Nile Delta.

The French Defense Ministry said 105 Egyptian planes had either been destroyed or made unusable. By one unofficial estimate, this was about a fourth of the Egyptian air force.

The Israeli Embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties (killed, wounded and captured) at 5,000. "Israeli casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

Egypt stepped up a guerrilla campaign. Israel said a large number of Fedayeens entered Israel's Negev desert Thursday night, blowing up a number of vehicles and irrigation pipes.

British and French naval units were reported closing in on both ends of the Suez Canal.

The two nations said they would occupy the canal points of Port Said, Suez and Ismailia, but insisted their occupation would be only temporary.

Prince Of Peace Contests Sunday

Several local contests will be held Sunday in this year's Prince of Peace competition.

Winners of the local contests will participate later in the Pickaway County contest as the next step in eliminations. Statewide, the contest is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Sandra Imogene Gibbs, apparently the only contestant in the city of Circleville, will automatically become the winner Sunday as the lone entry in a local contest to be held at the First Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Another local contest, scheduled Sunday for 8 p. m., will be held in Pickaway Township School. It is being sponsored by the school's public speaking class.

* * *

Contestants, all of Pickaway Township School, are: Pete Smith, Peggy Anderson, Mary Ellen Goeller and Sidney Graves.

Another local contest will be held Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in the Salem Methodist Church at Meade. The event is being sponsored jointly by Pickaway Township School and the church.

The Rev. Lester Taylor and Elizabeth Amsted are co-chairmen.

Contestants, all of Pickaway Township School, are: Barbara Ginther, Linda Miller, Linda Wilson and Mark List.

* * *

WINNERS OF local contests receive a bronze medal. Winners of the county contest will receive a silver medal, and winners of district contests gold medals. District winners will comptee in a semi-final contest in Columbus in January, and finals will be held at the Ohio Pastors' Convention on Wednesday, Jan. 30, 1957.

First prize in the contest will be $200 and a four-year free-tuition college scholarship. Second prize will be $100 and a two-year scholarship. Third prize is $75 and a one-year scholarship. Three additional awards of $50 each will be given runners-up. In addition, there will be an award of $50 for the best original essay used by a contestant.

Phone Employe Bound Over To Grand Jury

Union Striker Says He Injured Her In 'Shoving' Melee

Arthur Craven, an employe of the local telephone company, was bound over to the grand jury under $50 bond this morning in Circlevile Municipal Court.

The phone worker was bound over on an accusation of assault and battery, filed by Martha Lagrow, a local union member.

The union member claims she suffered a bruised shoulder in a "shoving" incident near the phone company building here October 23.

According to the affidavit, Mrs. Lagrow was grabbed by the arm and pushed.

A strike against the phone utility began more than three months ago, and pickets have been on duty at the Circleville exchange.

U.S. Suspending Arms For Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. government today suspended shipments of military supplies to Israel pending decisions on Israel's role in the Middle East crisis.

The suspension order applies to supplies at the docks ready for loading as well as supplies which might be ready for shipment or en route to ports.

The impact on Israel's military capacity will not be very great—if indeed it is felt at all—in the immediate future.

Rotarians Warned That Minority, Conistent Voters, Rules Nation

Joining in the public appeal for a large voter turnout at next Tuesday's elections, Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William D. Radcliff reminded Rotarians yesterday that the nation is actually governed by a minority, the consistent voters.

He was the main speaker at the weekly Rotary luncheon meeting and emphasized the importance of voting in a democracy.

Judge Radcliff pointed out that the percentage of eligible voters who cast ballots has been dwindling since the turn of the century. And he warned that the trend must be checked, lest the national scene change from that of two major parties to many "splinter" parties—and unstable government.

"American history shows that it is our habit not to vote for something we want to keep, but to vote to get rid of something we don't want!", Judge Radcliff said. Thus, he went on, a new philosophy must be developed in our voting habits, to insure regular representation at the polls.

* * *

LOOKING back over ironical turns taken by the nation's voting habits and electoral system, Judge Radcliff told Rotary how, since 1824, three U. S. presidents have been elected although they trailed in the popular vote.

He explained this was possible under the electoral college system. Judge Radcliff also pointed out:

In the average election, only a few more than 50 percent of the eligible voters cast their ballots—and a percentage of these voters, those who make their balloting a consistent duty, actually govern the nation.

Mistakes Of Naaman

Many times we may profit by the mistakes of others and consequently be made more careful ourselves. One of the most interesting stories in the Bible is the story of Naaman, a leper (2 Kings 5:1-14). He was captain of the Syrian army, a great man with his master, and honorable, but he was a "leper" (verse 1), and that spoiled it all.

There are many great men today, who also are "honorable." But if they are sinners that spoils it all. The leper was ceremonially unclean (Leviticus 14). His flesh was full of sores, the fingers rotted off, tongue cracked open, and he was not allowed to associate with other people. Sin of the soul is like leprosy of the body in that it defiles the mind and conscience, the heart and soul — the whole inner man (Titus 1:15). Only God could cure Naaman of his leprosy, and only Christ, the "Great Physician," can cure the sin sick soul. However, in his efforts to get healed of his leprosy Naaman made many mistakes. Sometimes people today make the same mistakes in trying to be cleansed of sin.

HE WENT TO THE WRONG PARTY

The Jewish maid in Naaman's home told her mistress that there was a "prophet" in Israel who could heal Naaman of his leprosy. However, at the suggestion of the king of Syria, Naaman went to the "king" of Israel, the wrong party. The maid said nothing about the king of Israel being able to heal anyone (2 Kings 5:4-6).

Likewise, many sinners now go to the wrong parties and places in seeking salvation. Some make the mistake of going to the Priest to be "absolved" from the guilt of sin, when no man has the power to forgive sin (Matt. 9:1-10). Christ is our only mediator (1 Tim. 2:5-6). Others make the mistake of going to the old law of Moses to find the terms of salvation for the Christian age. But we are not under the old covenant law (Col. 2:14; Eph. 2:14-16; Rom. 6:14; 7:1-4; 2 Cor. 3:6; Gal. 5:4). Christ is now the author of salvation (Heb. 5:8-9; 12:1-3). We must go to Christ and the New Testament. (More next week).

Dem Chieftain Pulls Boner, Booms For Ike

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Democratic chairman, by a slip of the tongue, made a pitch for Republican President Eisenhower Thursday. And in front of Gov. Averell Harriman too.

Michael H. Prendergast, speaking at a Democratic luncheonrally, told listeners: "We are going to carry New York state for Stevenson, Eisenhower and (Robert F.) Wagner."

Wagner, mayor of New York City, is the Democratic candidate for U.S. senator.

The audience snickered. Gov. Harriman tugged at Prendergast's sleeve and whispered to him.

"That goes to show you what can happen when you get overtired near the end of the campaign," Prendergast said.

"That's probably the worst thing that ever happened to a state chairman. Let me start again. We're going to carry the state for Stevenson, Kefauver and Wagner."

Chiropractor Raps Rock 'n' Roll Craze

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A Lexington chiropractor says dancing to rock 'n' roll music is causing a mild boom in his field.

"This uninhibited dancing without any rules or special steps is bringing a variety of sprains and displacements," Dr. George Cheatham Jr. told the Lexington Chiropractic Assn.

It is an "uncalculated risk for even the youngest and most supple citizens," he said. "Young girls come to chiropractors for what can be diagnosed as 'rock 'n' roll shoulder.' " He said:

"They often wind up with sacroiliacs as much out of harmony as the music they dance to."

DEAR FARM VOTER:

How do your economic standards today compare to four years ago? Undoubtedly, like farmers throughout the country, your earnings are down while your costs are up. Here are facts on why this is so!

Between 1954 and 1955, U. S. farmers suffered the sharpest cut in take-home pay (11%) in any single year in history, except 1921. Moreover, farm income in the first three months of 1956 is running 10 per cent lower than the same months of 1955.

Despite these facts, President Eisenhower chose to veto the Democratic farm bill to restore 90% price support, over the protests of two of the three major U. S. farm organizations — the National Farmers Union and the National Grange. In urging Mr. Eisenhower to sign the bill, Herschel D. Newsom, Master of the Grange said "It is not a bad bill because it will help farmers financially this year, and it will reduce the threat to the entire nation's economy of a continued drop in farm income." President Eisenhower's veto cost U. S. farmers an estimated 3.1 billion dollars in farm income.

The Democrats in the House of Representatives tried to override the Eisenhower veto, but solid Republican opposition prevented them. Here was the party vote on the veto:

	For the Democratic 90% Bill	Against the Democratic 90% Bill
House Democrats	182 (79%)	37
House Republicans	20	174 (86%)

Candidate Eisenhower pledged at Brookings, South Dakota, on October 4, 1952, that the Republican party would sustain the 90 percent parity price support and do even more by helping the farmer obtain full 100 percent parity. He has broken his best known pledged to the farmer!

Between 1947 and 1954, the parity ratio has been above 100% in every post-war year under the Democrats. Below 100% in every year since the Reublicans took office.

Now for a simple illustration on why prices are up while farm income is down.

1955 Hog Situation

Average hog price received by farmers per Cwt. January 15, 1955 — $17.00.

11 Months Later — December 15, 1955 — $10.60.

(Source: Agricultural Prices — U S D A)
Armour and Company — 1955 profits up — 66.5%
(Source: Legislative Reference — Library of Congress)

In 1954 and 1955, the Republicans opposed Democratic soil bank plans — decided to adopt the soil bank idea in election year.

These are just a few of the reasons why the farmers in the U. S. today are being pinched economically. Republicans say the small farmer should give up — that farming is now big business. Vote Democratic and see how things will change — higher income, lower prices, the fullest parity possible — as it has been under Democrat Administrations in the past.

2 State Issues To Face Ohio Voter Tuesday

Bonus For Korean Veterans, New Terms For Senators Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two state issues—both proposed constitutional amendments—will face Ohio voters next Tuesday.

One proposes a state bonus for veterans of the Korean conflict. The other would provide four-year—instead of two-year—terms for state senators.

The Korean bonus must be offered to the voters as a constitutional amendment because financing it requires a bond issue far in excess of Ohio's $750,000 debt limit as set by the Ohio Constitution.

If a majority of those voting on the Koraen bonus proposal favor it, the state will be authorized to issue up to 90 million dollars in bonds. These would be retired by a special levy on real and personal property.

The bonus proposal provides payments of up to $400 to legal residents of Ohio who served in the armed forces between June 25, 1950, and July 1953. Those dates represent the beginning and ending of hostilities in Korea.

Payments would be $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month of foreign service—but with a $400 maximum. An estimated 280,000 veterans would be eligible for the payments.

Ohio provided similar bonuses for veterans of both Worlds Wars. The World War I bonus bonds long since have been retired. But Ohio still owes about 100 million dollars on the 300-million-dollar World War II bonus.

Two years ago, Ohio voters rejected a constitutional change to give members of both Houses in the General Assembly four-year terms. The substitute proposal—to grant longer terms to members of the Senate only—is up for the voters' decision Tuesday.

If the voters approve longer Senate terms, half of the 34 state senators elected in 1958 would serve four-year terms. The other half elected in that year would serve two years.

But in 1960, senators in districts still with two-year terms would be elected to four-year terms. That would provide staggered terms and also means half the Senate would stand for election every two years.

Backers of the four-year term proposal say it would give senators added prestige. They said most senators must campaign in several counties while their colleagues in the House make their races in a single county.

They also point out that U. S. senators serve six years while U. S. representatives are elected every two years.

Opponents say two-year terms for state senators should be continued because they make senators, as well as House members, more responsive to the will of the people.

Examiners Uncover Intangible Taxes

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers reports $641,434 in intangible taxes has been turned up by tax agents in the last two years.

Bowers explained that the $641,434 represents intangible tax liability against holders of notes and land contracts that were not listed on tax returns.

Tax agents arrived at the figure after checking county records against personal property tax returns. So far, 55 of Ohio's 88 counties have been checked.

Bowers said his tax agents uncover about $6 million annually in auditing personal property tax returns.

Weak Third Quarter Trims Some Corporation Profits

NEW YORK (AP)—A disappointing third quarter for many companies has pulled high soaring profits down for the first nine months of the year. They are now even with last year for American business taken as a whole.

This is still a very high level. But it breaks the stream of year-by-year gains which had characterized corporate earnings since 1952.

This is the indication seen from a survey of the first 502 corporations to report net profits after taxes for the first nine months of 1956. Combined, their earnings this year trail those of the same period in 1955 by 0.5 per cent. This is only a preliminary report. Hundreds more will make public their earnings statements in the weeks ahead and the final figure could be different.

The combined drop so far shows up despite record earnings reported by many companies and despite the fact that two out of three of the 502 corporations show increases over last year's figures.

The auto industry has had its own sales troubles, but hopes they're over now.

Declining farm incomes show up in the profit and loss statements of the farm equipment makers and also in those of chemical companies making fertilizers. Building material firms suffered from the decline in home building.

But for many corporations the story was simply this: Operating costs—labor and materials—have been rising faster than sales volume or prices for their finished products.

On the other side of the picture there are glowing reports from many of the oil companies, coal companies, and nonferrous mining companies—although with the last the report is far from unanimous.

Highway Agency Ready For Winter

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Highway Department's maintenance bureau has inspected 1,200 cases of equipment it will use this winter to fight snow and ice on Ohio roads.

The department plans to erect about one million feet of snow fence to guard roads and believes that before winter is over it will use 125,000 tons of chemicals and 185,000 tons of cinders in combatting slippery roads. Radios have been installed in snow plows that will be used in northeastern Ohio, the state's "snowbelt" area, to speed up operations there.

In fact, it turned into the biggest news in the automatic washer line—the amazing Norge dispenser wheel. You can see the whole story demonstrated at Boyer's Hardware, 810 S. Court St.

It all started, Tingley's wife admits, this-a-way:

"I GRIPED every time I had to go down to the basement to add a water conditioner during the rinse cycle. The water conditioner helps rinse the detergent out of the family wash during the rinse cycle.

"Otherwise, you get what they call 'detergent yellow' ".

As for her husband's invention, it operates on centrifugal force. It dispenses the water conditioner automatically, at just the correct time.

PROPOSED SCHOOL LEVY
Monroe Township

Dear Voter, and or, School Patron,

As a voter in Monroe Township you are being asked to support a proposed three mill renewal current operating school levy for a period of five years.

As you know the revenue derived from this levy will be used to meet the current operating expenses of the school as it has been in the past. We need this renewal levy to continue meeting the increased school costs of today. It is interesting to note that 499 local school districts in counties in Ohio find it necessary to submit levies to the voters this year. 43 exempted villages, and 72 cities find it necessary to do the same.

The passage of this levy will not increase your school taxes. It only continues the present operating levy which was voted. However, the Hoffman Act requires that the form of the ballot state that the levy is a renewal tax of two and fifty-five hundreth mills (2.55 mills) and an increase of forty-five hundreths mills (.45 mills). Together these amounts equal three mills or the amount of the old levy which is expiring.

Your vote for the levy will be a vote for the continuation of a high quality Monroe Township School. As members of the board of education, it is our duty to submit to the people of the township the financial problems which confront the board and the school and to ask your help, in conformity with the laws of Ohio, in solving these problems. We need the revenue that is now being provided by this levy.

Will you vote FOR THE LEVY

2 State Issues To Face Ohio Voter Tuesday

Bonus For Korean Veterans, New Terms For Senators Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two state issues—both proposed constitutional amendments—will face Ohio voters next Tuesday.

One proposes a state bonus for veterans of the Korean conflict. The other would provide four-year—instead of two-year—terms for state senators.

The Korean bonus must be offered to the voters as a constitutional amendment because financing it requires a bond issue far in excess of Ohio's $750,000 debt limit as set by the Ohio Constitution.

If a majority of those voting on the Koraen bonus proposal favor it, the state will be authorized to issue up to 90 million dollars in bonds. These would be retired by a special levy on real and personal property.

The bonus proposal provides payments of up to $400 to legal residents of Ohio who served in the armed forces between June 25, 1950, and July 1953. Those dates represent the beginning and ending of hostilities in Korea.

Payments would be $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month of foreign service—but with a $400 maximum. An estimated 280,000 veterans would be eligible for the payments.

Ohio provided similar bonuses for veterans of both Worlds Wars. The World War I bonus bonds long since have been retired. But Ohio still owes about 100 million dollars on the 300-million-dollar World War II bonus.

Two years ago, Ohio voters rejected a constitutional change to give members of both Houses in the General Assembly four-year terms. The substitute proposal—to grant longer terms to members of the Senate only—is up for the voters' decision Tuesday.

If the voters approve longer Senate terms, half of the 34 state senators elected in 1958 would serve four-year terms. The other half elected in that year would serve two years.

But in 1960, senators in districts still with two-year terms would be elected to four-year terms. That would provide staggered terms and also means half the Senate would stand for election every two years.

Backers of the four-year term proposal say it would give senators added prestige. They said most senators must campaign in several counties while their colleagues in the House make their races in a single county.

They also point out that U. S. senators serve six years while U. S. representatives are elected every two years.

Opponents say two-year terms for state senators should be continued because they make senators, as well as House members, more responsive to the will of the people.

Examiners Uncover Intangible Taxes

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers reports $641,434 in intangible taxes has been turned up by tax agents in the last two years.

Bowers explained that the $641,434 represents intangible tax liability against holders of notes and land contracts that were not listed on tax returns.

Tax agents arrived at the figure after checking county records against personal property tax returns. So far, 55 of Ohio's 88 counties have been checked.

Bowers said his tax agents uncover about $6 million annually in auditing personal property tax returns.

Weak Third Quarter Trims Some Corporation Profits

NEW YORK (AP)—A disappointing third quarter for many companies has pulled high soaring profits down for the first nine months of the year. They are now even with last year for American business taken as a whole.

This is still a very high level. But it breaks the stream of year-by-year gains which had characterized corporate earnings since 1952.

This is the indication seen from a survey of the first 502 corporations to report net profits after taxes for the first nine months of 1956. Combined, their earnings this year trail those of the same period in 1955 by 0.5 per cent. This is only a preliminary report. Hundreds more will make public their earnings statements in the weeks ahead and the final figure could be different.

The combined drop so far shows up despite record earnings reported by many companies and despite the fact that two out of three of the 502 corporations show increases over last year's figures.

The declining third, however,—especially those in the auto, steel, farm equipment industries and individual giants in the chemical, electronics, and aircraft fields—took a deep enough plunge to outweigh the gainers and bring the total, or average, down.

But many of those who reported smaller profits this time declare that the final months of this year look so good for their business that much of the drop will be erased.

The steel strike last summer gets much of the blame for poor third quarter figures which pulled down the gains made in the first of the year. Steel companies, railroads serving them and some of steel's customers suffered.

The auto industry has had its own sales troubles, but hopes they're over now.

Declining farm incomes show up in the profit and loss statements of the farm equipment makers and also in those of chemical companies making fertilizers. Building material firms suffered from the decline in home building.

But for many corporations the story was simply this: Operating costs—labor and materials—have been rising faster than sales volume or prices for their finished products.

On the other side of the picture there are glowing reports from many of the oil companies, coal companies, and nonferrous mining companies—although with the last the report is far from unanimous.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The familiar world is coming apart for both the United States and Russia. Russia had satellites it thought it could control. The United States had allies it thought it could lead.

In the explosions in Poland and Hungary, satellites broke away from the master; in the Middle East, allies broke from their leader. When the dust settles the world will not be the same.

New forces have been let loose. New arrangements will have to be made. Russia will distrust its satellites, the United States its allies. Both will have to re-examine their thinking.

What both underestimated was the force of nationalism and colonialism: Russia the nationalism within its satellites, the United States the colonialism within its allies.

These recent explosions were only the latest in a series of which the fuse was lit in World War II. It is only because the others happened a bit at a time that they may have seemed unrelated.

When the sheer exhaustion of World War II shook the hold of the big colonial powers — particularly Britain and France — on their possessions, the newly freed people in Asia, Africa and the Middle East set out eagerly on the road toward self-development.

Their new independence gave them not only a sense of life but a high sensitivity to anything which looked like pressure from their old colonial masters. If they harbored hate, it is understandable. They had been held down for centuries.

Meanwhile, Russia, which had owned nothing outside its borders, took advantage of World War II in the opposite direction: it became the biggest colonial power of all by occupying and communizing the Eastern European countries and erecting an Iron Curtain around it.

The United States then took leadership of the free world in building a barricade against the Iron Curtain. It did so by economic and military help and alliances that stretched around the world.

Since 1948, when the Marshall Plan began, the United States has handed out almost 21½ billion dollars in economic help and over 14 billions in military aid. It put its greatest trust on its military alliance with West Europe, mainly Britain and France.

The first crack from behind the curtain came in 1948 when Yugoslavia, asserting its own nationalism, broke with Stalin although remaining Communist.

One year later the Reds took over China and remained independent of Russia. These examples gave new hope to the satellite peoples—whose nationalism never did. It remained only a hope under the tyranny of Stalin.

But his heirs, apparently conscious of the pressures building up in the satellites, suggested more independent thinking for all Communists, this meant relaxed controls. It lifted the lid. Having tasted again some of their ancient freedom, the Poles and Hungarians wanted more.

Meanwhile, the colonialism of this country's two biggest allies, Britain and France, yielded ground slowly. For example: the French in North Africa, the British in Egypt. The British didn't want to take their troops out of the Suez Canal zone. The United States urged them into it.

In doing so, Secreary of State Dulles misunderstood the fierce nationalism in the Arab world and particularly the ambitions of Egyptian Presiednt Nasser. He thought by making concessions to Nasser he would keep him and the rest of the Middle East away from Russia. Dulles underestimated his man.

Nasser, once the British were out of the canal, drove on to rally the Arabs around him. Dulles infuriated him by refusing him money to build a dam. Nasser retaliated by seizing the canal.

Without the Middle Eastern oil that came through the canal, Britain and France, both of whom never forget their former power in the Middle East, would be slowed down to a walk.

In typical colonial fashion they reacted immediately by wanting to crush the militarily weak Nasser. Dulles tried to cool them down by stalling tactics. They got fed up and, ignoring the United States, attacked Egypt, using as a handy excuse the attack begun on Egypt by the Israelis.

They said they wanted to stop the fighting. But they have not attacked the Israelis and the Egyptians alike in an effort to make both lay down their arms. All their fire has been against the Egyptians.

Their relationship with the United States — if this fighting doesn't lead to another world war —can never be the same.

Inquiry Slated In Vet's Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — A four-man board of inquiry has been named to "fix the responsibility" for the death of a patient in the Veterans' Hospital here in a "wrong type" blood transfusion.

A report filed in the office of Coroner Herbert P. Lyle, said Leroy Stewart, 66, of Warsaw, Ky., was given the wrong type of blood by mistake and that Stewart died as a result.

Veteran Group Officials Urge Public To Vote

In a joint statement today, the leader's of Ohio's four major veterans organizations added their voices to the get-out-the-vote campaign, urging all citizens and veterans everywhere to go to the polls on November 6.

The appeal was sounded by State Commanders Fred Thacker of the American Legion, Edgar L. Williams of the AMVETS, Kenneth Robey of the Disabled American Veterans and Robert Combs of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The four State Commanders, whose organizations represent approximately 237,000 veterans, pointed out that veterans and citizens should recognize the importance of voting.

"Many of you actually risked your lives defending our sacred freedoms," the officials said, "One of those freedoms is the right of franchise and each time you exercise that right you help to keep the light of freedom burning," they added.

The Commanders also pointed out in their joint release that the question of a State Bonus for veterans of the Korean War will be brought before the voting public. They urged the voters to approve its passage.

School To Ditch Conventional Pens

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Inkwells are on the way out in St. Louis elementary schools. Supt. Philip J. Hickey said ballpoint pens will be introduced in February.

"It will eliminate such unfortunate accidents as when a penpoint is pushed with vigor into a person's body," he said.

Crippled Kids Now Members Of Special 'Jet Pilot Squad'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A new Air Force "unit" is in operation today because a little boy kept trying to walk.

As a result, Jimmy Mason's many spills no longer raise bumps on his head—and others in his school class are just about the happiest jet "pilots" anywhere.

Polio left Jimmy, 7, crippled in both legs and with partial use of only one arm. It didn't rob him of his spunk.

A few weeks ago Jimmy tugged at his braces and began trying to walk. After several attempts, he managed to take a few steps at a time. But he always wound up by falling.

Jimmy was unable to raise his arms to protect himself, and each fall raised a new bump or marked him with a new cut.

Still, he kept trying.

The other day his school teacher at Samuel Gompers Memorial Clinic, Ted Hollingsworth, decided to equip Jimmy with a football helmet and face guard.

The rig protected Jimmy against head injuries, but, says Hollingsworth, it also "made him feel different" from the seven other crippled children in his class.

The similarity of the football helmet with pride, but another probjet pilots gave Hollingsworth another idea.

His classroom became a squadroom and all classwork was keyed to pilot activities.

Jimmy began wearing the helmet with prie, but another problem popped up. Hollingsworth detected a trace of envy on the part of the other pupils.

The teacher turned to nearby Luke Air Force Base for help and the Air Force came on the run.

Tuesday, Capt. Hugh M. Matheson of Los Angeles, and fellow officers of Luke's 3600th combat crew training group landed a helicopter on a playground at the clinic.

The airmen brought helmets for the seven other pupils, a collection of model planes and certificates activating the class as the "jet pilot squadron."

Matheson admitted he was "a pushover from the start" of the project. "You see," he said, "when I was a kid, a collapsed spine put me in a crippled children's hospital for a year. I guess I understand."

Huge Tax Claim Filed Against Firm

CANTON (AP)—A tax lien for $1,050,207 has been filed here against the Muskingum Coal Co. and its subsidiaries, Jones Motor Sales, Inc., and Earl J. Jones Enterprises, Inc., of Zanesville.

Earl J. Jones of Zanesville controls all three firms. Earl J. Jones Enterprises includes the Massillon Independent newspaper.

The government said the lien, filed in the Stark County recorder's office, is for unpaid federal income taxes for the years 1952 through 1955.

Turnpike Truck Traffic Increase

CLEVELAND (AP)—Truck traffic on the Ohio Turnpike continued through October the sharp upward trend begun with last summer's toll rate reductions, the Ohio Turnpike Commission reports.

Total revenue from tolls during October, first month of the second year of operation, was estimated at $1,173,600. That was 13.7 per cent above the $1,032,023 income from tolls during October, 1955.

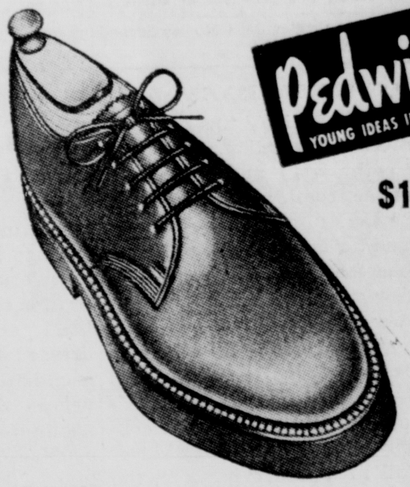

Eclipse Of Moon Slated For Nov. 18

CINCINNATI (AP)—There will be a total eclipse of the moon Nov. 18 but Ohioans will have to stay up late to see it.

Dr. Evérett I. Yowell, professor emeritus of astronomy for the University of Cincinnati, who compiles a monthly report on astronomical highlights, said the eclipse would begin three minutes after midnight.

Its totality will begin at 1:08 a. m. The middle of the eclipse will be at 1:48 a. m., and the end at 2:27 a. m.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The familiar world is coming apart for both the United States and Russia. Russia had satellites it thought it could control. The United States had allies it thought it could lead.

In the explosions in Poland and Hungary, satellites broke away from the master; in the Middle East, allies broke from their leader. When the dust settles the world will not be the same.

New forces have been let loose. New arrangements will have to be made. Russia will distrust its satellites, the United States its allies. Both will have to re-examine their thinking.

What both underestimated was the force of nationalism and colonialism: Russia the nationalism within its satellites, the United States the colonialism within its allies.

These recent explosions were only the latest in a series of which the fuse was lit in World War II. It is only because the others happened a bit at a time that they may have seemed unrelated.

When the sheer exhaustion of World War II shook the hold of the big colonial powers — particularly Britain and France — on their possessions, the newly freed people in Asia, Africa and the Middle East set out eagerly on the road toward self-development.

Their new independence gave them not only a sense of life but a high sensitivity to anything which looked like pressure from their old colonial masters. If they harbored hate, it is understandable. They had been held down for centuries.

Meanwhile, Russia, which had owned nothing outside its borders, took advantage of World War II in the opposite direction: it became the biggest colonial power of all by occupying and communizing the Eastern European countries and erecting an Iron Curtain around it.

The United States then took leadership of the free world in building a barricade against the Iron Curtain. It did so by economic and military help and alliances that stretched around the world.

Since 1948, when the Marshall Plan began, the United States has handed out almost 21½ billion dollars in economic help and over 14 billions in military aid. It put its greatest trust on its military alliance with West Europe, mainly Britain and France.

The first crack from behind the curtain came in 1948 when Yugoslavia, asserting its own nationalism, broke with Stalin although remaining Communist.

One year later the Reds took over China and remained independent of Russia. These examples gave new hope to the satellite peoples—whose nationalism never did. It remained only a hope under the tyranny of Stalin.

But his heirs, apparently conscious of the pressures building up in the satellites, suggested more independent thinking for all Communists, this meant relaxed controls. It lifted the lid. Having tasted again some of their ancient freedom, the Poles and Hungarians wanted more.

Meanwhile, the colonialism of this country's two biggest allies, Britain and France, yielded ground slowly. For example: the French in North Africa, the British in Egypt. The British didn't want to take their troops out of the Suez Canal zone. The United States urged them into it.

In doing so, Secreary of State Dulles misunderstood the fierce nationalism in the Arab world and particularly the ambitions of Egyptian Presiednt Nasser. He thought by making concessions to Nasser he would keep him and the rest of the Middle East away from Russia. Dulles underestimated his man.

Nasser, once the British were out of the canal, drove on to rally the Arabs around him. Dulles infuriated him by refusing him money to build a dam. Nasser retaliated by seizing the canal.

Without the Middle Eastern oil that came through the canal, Britain and France, both of whom never forget their former power in the Middle East, would be slowed down to a walk.

In typical colonial fashion they reacted immediately by wanting to crush the militarily weak Nasser. Dulles tried to cool them down by stalling tactics. They got fed up and, ignoring the United States, attacked Egypt, using as a handy excuse the attack begun on Egypt by the Israelis.

They said they wanted to stop the fighting. But they have not attacked the Israelis and the Egyptians alike in an effort to make both lay down their arms. All their fire has been against the Egyptians.

Their relationship with the United States — if this fighting doesn't lead to another world war —can never be the same.

Inquiry Slated In Vet's Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — A four-man board of inquiry has been named to "fix the responsibility" for the death of a patient in the Veterans' Hospital here in a "wrong type" blood transfusion.

A report filed in the office of Coroner Herbert P. Lyle, said Leroy Stewart, 66, of Warsaw, Ky., was given the wrong type of blood by mistake and that Stewart died as a result.

Veteran Group Officials Urge Public To Vote

In a joint statement today, the leader's of Ohio's four major veterans organizations added their voices to the get-out-the-vote campaign, urging all citizens and veterans everywhere to go to the polls on November 6.

The appeal was sounded by State Commanders Fred Thacker of the American Legion, Edgar L. Williams of the AMVETS, Kenneth Robey of the Disabled American Veterans and Robert Combs of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The four State Commanders, whose organizations represent approximately 237,000 veterans, pointed out that veterans and citizens should recognize the importance of voting.

"Many of you actually risked your lives defending our sacred freedoms," the officials said, "One of those freedoms is the right of franchise and each time you exercise that right you help to keep the light of freedom burning," they added.

The Commanders also pointed out in their joint release that the question of a State Bonus for veterans of the Korean War will be brought before the voting public. They urged the voters to approve its passage.

School To Ditch Conventional Pens

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Inkwells are on the way out in St. Louis elementary schools. Supt. Philip J. Hickey said ballpoint pens will be introduced in February.

"It will eliminate such unfortunate accidents as when a penpoint is pushed with vigor into a person's body," he said.

Crippled Kids Now Members Of Special 'Jet Pilot Squad'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A new Air Force "unit" is in operation today because a little boy kept trying to walk.

As a result, Jimmy Mason's many spills no longer raise bumps on his head—and others in his school class are just about the happiest jet "pilots" anywhere.

Polio left Jimmy, 7, crippled in both legs and with partial use of only one arm. It didn't rob him of his spunk.

A few weeks ago Jimmy tugged at his braces and began trying to walk. After several attempts, he managed to take a few steps at a time. But he always wound up by falling.

Jimmy was unable to raise his arms to protect himself, and each fall raised a new bump or marked him with a new cut.

Still, he kept trying.

The other day his school teacher at Samuel Gompers Memorial Clinic, Ted Hollingsworth, decided to equip Jimmy with a football helmet and face guard.

The rig protected Jimmy against head injuries, but, says Hollingsworth, it also "made him feel different" from the seven other crippled children in his class.

The similarity of the football helmet with pride, but another problem popped up. Hollingsworth detected a trace of envy on the part of the other pupils.

The teacher turned to nearby Luke Air Force Base for help and the Air Force came on the run.

Tuesday, Capt. Hugh M. Matheson of Los Angeles, and fellow officers of Luke's 3600th combat crew training group landed a helicopter on a playground at the clinic.

The airmen brought helmets for the seven other pupils, a collection of model planes and certificates activating the class as the "jet pilot squadron."

Matheson admitted he was "a pushover from the start" of the project. "You see," he said, "when I was a kid, a collapsed spine put me in a crippled children's hospital for a year. I guess I understand."

Huge Tax Claim Filed Against Firm

CANTON (AP)—A tax lien for $1,050,207 has been filed here against the Muskingum Coal Co. and its subsidiaries, Jones Motor Sales, Inc., and Earl J. Jones Enterprises, Inc., of Zanesville.

Earl J. Jones of Zanesville controls all three firms. Earl J. Jones Enterprises includes the Massillon Independent newspaper.

The government said the lien, filed in the Stark County recorder's office, is for unpaid federal income taxes for the years 1952 through 1955.

Turnpike Truck Traffic Increase

CLEVELAND (AP)—Truck traffic on the Ohio Turnpike continued through October the sharp upward trend begun with last summer's toll rate reductions, the Ohio Turnpike Commission reports.

Total revenue from tolls during October, first month of the second year of operation, was estimated at $1,173,600. That was 13.7 per cent above the $1,032,023 income from tolls during October, 1955.

Eclipse Of Moon Slated For Nov. 18

CINCINNATI (AP)—There will be a total eclipse of the moon Nov. 18 but Ohioans will have to stay up late to see it.

Dr. Everett I. Yowell, professor emeritus of astronomy for the University of Cincinnati, who compiles a monthly report on astronomical highlights, said the eclipse would begin three minutes after midnight.

Its totality will begin at 1:08 a. m. The middle of the eclipse will be at 1:48 a. m., and the end at 2:27 a. m.

TOLL OF CARELESSNESS

WITH THE TANGY air of the Fall season covering much of the nation, nature lovers, fresh air enthusiasts and all others with a touch of the frontiersman's blood in their veins are taking advantage of the woods, fields and trails which are so plentiful in the United States.

These last few weeks of bright, windy, invigorating weather give the businessman, the factory worker and all others in the northern latitudes who spend a large part of their lives under the roof of a building their last opportunity to clear the cobwebs from their minds before the chill of Winter sends all men scurrying for the comfort of the fireside or the balmy climate of southern Winter resorts.

This is also the time of the year when fire, a comfort and friend to man, can turn into a deadly enemy. With the ranks of the outdoorsmen swelled by thousands of nimrods stalking their prey, the woods and fields are forced to sustain the added risk of fire's greatest starter—man. It is a well established fact that over 90 per cent of forest fires are caused by outdoor enthusiasts who enjoy relaxing in rural areas.

Forest fires, as wasteful in dollars and resources as they are, are surpassed only by home fires for destructiveness. Urban fires, in addition to the tremendous waste in money and material, each year, uselessly snuff out the lives of thousands of Americans. Again, this is the time of the year when care is needed, for home heating plants—after standing idle during the Summer months—can become tools of destruction if not in proper working order when fired for Winter use.

Man insists upon setting many fire traps for himself in the form of poor smoking habits, careless building of fireplace fires, faulty electrical wiring and careless storage of inflammable liquids and waste materials. These traps have been well set, as attested to by the 11,000 fire victims in this country every year. This year has perhaps progressed too far toward the annual goal to cut it appreciably, but wouldn't it be worth while saving just one life—if that life were yours?

BETTER "BIRD HOUSES"

NEW CONCEPT of wildlife conservation —that of producing and annually harvesting a surplus crop—has brought many novel "tools" into a field where a few decades ago only the "no-trespassing" sign was the stock in trade. Through several distinct phases, wildlife conservationists sought to replenish the hordes of large and small game which were recorded as existing here before the white men.

First came restrictions. Instead of shooting without limit, a hunter was restricted in the number of animals he could kill. The precaution prevented extermination, but there was no immediate improvement. So the measure was augmented by seasons, allowing the game at least a free opportunity to breed.

Game continued to decrease. It became obvious that market hunting would have to go, so go it did. With its ending came establishment of expansive refuges which, it was hoped, would serve as giant reservoirs from which game would disperse to adjacent hunting areas. Came also the era of artificial breeding and restocking with pen-reared animals and, finally, introduction of exotics—or imported game.

When all seemed to little avail, there developed the new concept of conservation, that of providing "better homes" for game birds and animals. Basis for the new theory—really a combination of all that had gone before — was simply the proposition that, given the necessities of life — food, cover and rest—game would respond accordingly.

Today throughout the nation game managers are engaged in providing new and additional environment for all forms of wild life.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I came across a very interesting pamphlet, entitled "SEC and Foreign Capital," issued by De Pontet & Co., Inc., which states the Swiss position regarding anonymous bank accounts better than I had ever seen it. Any person can make a deposit in a Swiss bank, with only one officer of the bank knowing who the true owner of the account is. To that officer the individual must disclose his name, address, occupation, nationality and "whether all correspondence pertaining to his account should be forwarded to his address or kept in his file with the bank where he will check it whenever he comes to the bank. . ."

Further, it says in this pamphlet:

". . .In case he wishes the correspondence to be sent to his home address, the directors will take care that letters are not written to him on the bank's official letterhead paper, but on a plain sheet and addressed only to the number of the account; such letters are forwarded in a neutral envelope so that no one suspects they are from a bank. If the client lives in a foreign country, a special employee mails the letters in the client's country so as to avoid any suspicion that the client is in correspondence with Switzerland. . ."

What kind of money is this that requires so much secrecy? If it is American money, what is it doing in Switzerland and why do the accounts have to be surrounded with all this hocus-pocus? The answer must be that this money has gone underground.

When such money comes to the United States, the true owner is generally not known or knowable because no Swiss bank will identify the owner of an account. Now let me quote:

"On most of these accounts Swiss bank executives have discretionary power and invest in Switzerland as well as abroad, mainly for long-term capital gain. . . There is a reciprocal tax agreement between the United States whereby a Swiss holder of U. S. bonds pays only 5 percent withholding tax and 15 percent on U. S. stocks. However, the 30 percent withholding tax on dividend income applies to number accounts when the client is not a resident of Switzerland. . ." However, a smart man can arrange for a nominee who does live in Switzerland.

The three Swiss banks that specialize in American investments are the Union Bank of Switzerland, Credit Suisse and the Swiss Bank Corporation.

Up to now our government has never been able to break through the Swiss barrier of secrecy. But it is possible for a Congressional committee to delve into the European investment in American defense industries and no person so investing can claim secrecy under any of our laws. If the money is his, he can undoubtedly establish the fact; if he is the representative of other people's money, it is his responsibility to know who the other people are.

It would be possible for Congress to pass an act requiring the true owners of the shares of a company engaged in defense activities to be registered, excluding a bank unless the bank officials certify that the bank is the true and rightful owner of the money.

Perhaps the heart of the difference between the American and European attitude is in this paragraph:

CHAPTER 16

DOTTIE'S sister was smiling at me. Now that she had told me, I could see the resemblance between her and her sister. In a few years, if Dottie didn't heed the scales, she would be a chubby, overflowing bundle of sugar and spice like her older sister. Then I realized she had been speaking to me.

"I'm sorry," I said. "What did you say?"

Dottie's sister said, "Jack."

"Jack?"

She pointed toward the door.

"Here he is," she said. "Back again."

I looked, and there he was, back again. He was walking around the front of a black, two-door sedan. He had a raincoat over his arm. He came into the store and grinned at Dottie's sister; I could tell he liked her.

"Louise," he said, "I found Phil's raincoat in the car. He might need it tomorrow."

"Thanks, Jack." She took the coat from him. "That was thoughtful of you."

"Sure," he said. "I'm thoughtful."

He glanced at me without the slightest interest. For that I was grateful. But Louise had to open her lovely rosebud mouth. Her voice was hopping with excitement. She was going to love this.

"Jack!" she said. "Take a look at this young lady."

He took a look at me. He said, "I'm looking at her and I'm enjoying it. But why?"

Louise giggled; this was rich. She said, "She don't mean a thing to you! Boy, you're not kidding . . . memory sure plays tricks. Honey," she said to me, "say something. Maybe he'll recognize your voice. Speak!"

"Bow-wow," I said. "Arf-arf."

"Down, boy," Jack said. "What is this?"

"Jack!" Louise cried. "It's Hester Frost!"

"Hester," Jack said, very slowly. "Hester Frost."

The name had rung a bell with him. His memory wasn't playing tricks. He was remembering, no doubt, that Dottie had told him about a babe named Hester Frost who had come snooping around, minding their business.

His face wasn't pleasant anymore. His lips thinned into a hard tough line. His eyes turned frigid. He looked like a kid who was handy with a switch blade and proud of it. He didn't like me at all. His attitude started the fright churning inside me.

Louise was saying, "She went to grade school with you, she's been telling me. Grade school!"

"Why, sure, yes!" Jack said. His voice was hearty, playing the big reunion, but his eyes were still frozen. "Sure, little Hester Frost! You sat beside me in Miss Koehler's room. Whatever happened to you?"

"Whatever happened to Miss Koehler?" I asked.

"Say, do you remember Archie Hall?"

"That stinker? Well, it's been swell seeing you again, Jack. I'll be running along now . . ."

I started for the door. His hand was around my right arm, just above the elbow. I had no idea dancing teachers were so strong. This was painful.

"What's the rush?" he said. "Let's have a drink down the street . . . for old time's sake."

"Thanks . . . but no."

"Go ahead, honey," Louise said. "It's all right. Dottie's not the jealous type."

"No, really . . . I'm late."

"I'll drive you there," Jack said. "Wherever it is."

"Don't bother, I . . ."

"It'll be a pleasure."

He steered me forcibly toward the door.

"Drop in again, Hester," Louise called after us. "This has been fun."

Jack Walston pulled me into the front seat of the car. He flicked on the headlights and started the motor, his right hand still on my wrist. I never had liked one-arm drivers; I hated this one. At the first corner he turned right. He stopped, parked in the middle of the block. He let go of my wrist. He swung his body around under the steering wheel to face me.

He said, "Hester Frost . . . is that your real name?"

"Of course."

He was silent for a moment.

"You got yourself a job teaching at Crescent . . . the morning after the murder. You got Anita Farrell's job. Coincidence, isn't it?"

"Somebody had to take her place," I said.

"But then you start prying into other people's affairs . . . why?"

I didn't answer him; I couldn't.

Again he said, "Why?"

I heard myself babbling something about being a special investigator for the police . . . that the cops wanted to know why he was so interested in Anita Farrell's apartment . . . that if he'd answer a few questions I might consider giving him a break.

He was laughing at me. He wasn't making any noise, but he was laughing.

"Hiya, Blondie," he said. "You're cute."

"Now, listen," I said, "I don't want to have any trouble with you."

"Mata," he said. "Mata Hari."

"You answer my questions and . . ."

"Oh, stop it," he said.

"You just answer my questions and I'll let you go."

"You'll let me go?" he asked quietly. "Look, you don't have me. I have you."

"Let's put it this way . . . we have each other."

He said, "Your hands are shaking."

I clenched my hands together, tight.

He said, "They should be shaking. I have a very vicious streak in me. I fight people who bother me . . . and Dottie."

With one of my shaking hands, I jammed down the door handle, shoved against the door with my shoulder. He grabbed at me and missed. I was out on the sidewalk. He got out the door on his side and started around the hood of the car toward me.

I scrambled back into the car, got the door closed and locked. I lurched across the seat and locked the other door just in time. I turned on the ignition, stepped on the starter. He was shaking the door handle.

The car lunged forward and sent him sprawling. As I turned the nearest corner, I saw him in the rear view mirror. He was on his feet again, his hands on his hips, watching me disappear.

I had got away from Jack Walston. I had learned a thing or two about him and Dottie Harris. I was doing better this evening than I had all day. But I didn't feel better for it.

The Barton family was going rapidly to seed. Mr. Barton was the Waltzer, that maniac killer that the police of the world's largest city were seeking. Mrs. Barton was, at the moment, driving the streets of Kew Gardens in a car she had stolen.

I abandoned it at the subway station. I parked it within sight of an honest looking cop and headed for home. I didn't duck under the turnstile. I paid my fare and that returned to me a little of my self respect. I wasn't completely unregenerate yet.

An unwelcome visitor is waiting at home for Connie as Chapter 17 of "The Blonde Died Dancing" continues here tomorrow.

Headaches May Trace To Emotional Conflict

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

CHANGE your attitude, not your brand of aspirin, if you have frequent headaches.

Most headaches are caused by tension—emotional conflicts.

Hostile Impulses

These conflicts take on various forms. Some, many doctors say most, tension headaches are caused by hostile impulses. This includes resentment, hostility and aggression against members of the family or against persons representing family figures.

Such feelings of hostility, in turn, bring about feelings of guilt. And sometimes the sense of guilt is actually relieved by the headaches.

Some cases of tension headache can be traced directly to the desire for perfection, the constant hard striving to obtain it and the anger experienced when it isn't reached.

Still others can be linked to an unconscious wish to remain dependent upon someone. Or they may be a means of gaining love and affection.

In the vast majority of cases, some stress situation is involved.

An aspirin or two, or maybe an empirin compound tablet, followed by a second one an hour later, probably will bring temporary relief.

But for a more permanent cure, you've got to change your attitude. To put it simply, you've got to learn to relax.

Set aside a certain period every day to relax and do absolutely nothing. And don't try to cram too much housework or business activities into one day. Cut down on your work schedule.

Little Things

No one is perfect, you know, so stop insisting on perfection for yourself and others. Accept people as they really are, not as you would have them. Don't let little things upset you.

And remember, even today's big problems will seem relatively unimportant a month or week from now. Even by tomorrow, the picture probably will be brighter.

In A Mental Straitjacket?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Famous folks often are asked what keeps them so young.

The secret seems to be that they don't always act their age.

Nothing really makes you feel and look older than your years than letting your calendar age put you in a mental straitjacket.

"When are you ever going to grow up?" is a rebuke often heard from the killjoys of this world.

If by growing up they mean when are you going to put away all childish pleasures and be deadly serious about everything, your answer should be a fervent, "Never, I hope!"

The trouble with people who always insist on being deadly serious is that they often become seriously dead before their time.

No one could say that statesman Winston Churchill, financier Bernard Baruch, architect Frank Lloyd Wright or Casey Stengel, the leading exponent of world championship baseball, haven't done well in their respective fields. But they are all young old men. Why? Because each has kept alive in him a small boy's sense of fun.

The late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who quipped, "Oh, to be 70 again!" had the same quality. So did gentle Albert Einstein, father of the atom age.

The adult who feels he is wasting time unless he is always thinking high thoughts or doing important deeds is guiltier of a greater waste. He commits a form of suicide. He murders the spirit of childhood in him, the child he once was and must somehow keep alive or else he'll turn forever old.

It works as simply as a formula: let the delight of childhood die within you, and you begin to wither, too.

And what does delight of childhood consist of? It consists of the feeling of joy you get in doing things, not because they are important, but because they are fun.

Celebrities, when they aren't busy being celebrities, often relax in pursuits that seem childish to the worldy dull. The smarter the celebrity the more likely he is to have this ability to forget his own importance now and then relive the pleasure of acting like a kid.

The moral is: If you want to feel like a kid, forget your dignity now and then and act like one!

TOLL OF CARELESSNESS

WITH THE TANGY air of the Fall season covering much of the nation, nature lovers, fresh air enthusiasts and all others with a touch of the frontiersman's blood in their veins are taking advantage of the woods, fields and trails which are so plentiful in the United States.

These last few weeks of bright, windy, invigorating weather give the businessman, the factory worker and all others in the northern latitudes who spend a large part of their lives under the roof of a building their last opportunity to clear the cobwebs from their minds before the chill of Winter sends all men scurrying for the comfort of the fireside or the balmy climate of southern Winter resorts.

This is also the time of the year when fire, a comfort and friend to man, can turn into a deadly enemy. With the ranks of the outdoorsmen swelled by thousands of nimrods stalking their prey, the woods and fields are forced to sustain the added risk of fire's greatest starter—man. It is a well established fact that over 90 per cent of forest fires are caused by outdoor enthusiasts who enjoy relaxing in rural areas.

Forest fires, as wasteful in dollars and resources as they are, are surpassed only by home fires for destructiveness. Urban fires, in addition to the tremendous waste in money and material, each year, uselessly snuff out the lives of thousands of Americans. Again, this is the time of the year when care is needed, for home heating plants—after standing idle during the Summer months—can become tools of destruction if not in proper working order when fired for Winter use.

Man insists upon setting many fire traps for himself in the form of poor smoking habits, careless building of fireplace fires, faulty electrical wiring and careless storage of inflammable liquids and waste materials. These traps have been well set, as attested to by the 11,000 fire victims in this country every year. This year has perhaps progressed too far toward the annual goal to cut it appreciably, but wouldn't it be worth while saving just one life—if that life were yours?

BETTER "BIRD HOUSES"

NEW CONCEPT of wildlife conservation—that of producing and annually harvesting a surplus crop—has brought many novel "tools" into a field where a few decades ago only the "no-trespassing" sign was the stock in trade. Through several distinct phases, wildlife conservationists sought to replenish the hordes of large and small game which were recorded as existing here before the white men.

First came restrictions. Instead of shooting without limit, a hunter was restricted in the number of animals he could kill. The precaution prevented extermination, but there was no immediate improvement. So the measure was augmented by seasons, allowing the game at least a free opportunity to breed.

Game continued to decrease. It became obvious that market hunting would have to go, so go it did. With its ending came establishment of expansive refuges which, it was hoped, would serve as giant reservoirs from which game would disperse to adjacent hunting areas. Came also the era of artificial breeding and restocking with pen-reared animals and, finally, introduction of exotics—or imported game.

When all seemed to little avail, there developed the new concept of conservation, that of providing "better homes" for game birds and animals. Basis for the new theory—really a combination of all that had gone before — was simply the proposition that, given the necessities of life — food, cover and rest—game would respond accordingly.

Today throughout the nation game managers are engaged in providing new and additional environment for all forms of wild life.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I came across a very interesting pamphlet, entitled "SEC and Foreign Capital," issued by De Pontet & Co., Inc., which states the Swiss position regarding anonymous bank accounts better than I had ever seen it. Any person can make a deposit in a Swiss bank, with only one officer of the bank knowing who the true owner of the account is. To that officer the individual must disclose his name, address, occupation, nationality and "whether all correspondence pertaining to his account should be forwarded to his address or kept in his file with the bank where he will check it whenever he comes to the bank. . ."

Further, it says in this pamphlet:

". . .In case he wishes the correspondence to be sent to his home address, the directors will take care that letters are not written to him on the bank's official letterhead paper, but on a plain sheet and addressed only to the number of the account; such letters are forwarded in a neutral envelope so that no one suspects they are from a bank. If the client lives in a foreign country, a special employee mails the letters in the client's country so as to avoid any suspicion that the client is in correspondence with Switzerland. . ."

What kind of money is this that requires so much secrecy? If it is American money, what is it doing in Switzerland and why do the accounts have to be surrounded with all this hocus-pocus? The answer must be that this money has gone underground.

When such money comes to the United States, the true owner is generally not known or knowable because no Swiss bank will identify the owner of an account. Now let me quote:

"On most of these accounts Swiss bank executives have discretionary power and invest in Switzerland as well as abroad, mainly for long-term capital gain. . . There is a reciprocal tax agreement between the United States whereby a Swiss holder of U. S. bonds pays only 5 percent withholding tax and 15 percent on U. S. stocks. However, the 30 percent withholding tax on dividend income applies to number accounts when the client is not a resident of Switzerland. . ." However, a smart man can arrange for a nominee who does live in Switzerland.

The three Swiss banks that specialize in American investments are the Union Bank of Switzerland, Credit Suisse and the Swiss Bank Corporation.

Up to now our government has never been able to break through the Swiss barrier of secrecy. But it is possible for a Congressional committee to delve into the European investment in American defense industries and no person so investing can claim secrecy under any of our laws. If the money is his, he can undoubtedly establish the fact; if he is the representative of other people's money, it is his responsibility to know who the other people are.

It would be possible for Congress to pass an act requiring the true owners of the shares of a company engaged in defense activities to be registered, excluding a bank unless the bank officials certify that the bank is the true and rightful owner of the money.

Perhaps the heart of the difference between the American and European attitude is in this paragraph:

CHAPTER 16

DOTTIE'S sister was smiling at me. Now that she had told me, I could see the resemblance between her and her sister. In a few years, if Dottie didn't heed the scales, she would be a chubby, overflowing bundle of sugar and spice like her older sister. Then I realized she had been speaking to me.

"I'm sorry," I said. "What did you say?"

Dottie's sister said, "Jack."

"Jack?"

She pointed toward the door.

"Here he is," she said. "Back again."

I looked, and there he was, back again. He was walking around the front of a black, two-door sedan. He had a raincoat over his arm. He came into the store and grinned at Dottie's sister; I could tell he liked her.

"Louise," he said, "I found Phil's raincoat in the car. He might need it tomorrow."

"Thanks, Jack." She took the coat from him. "That was thoughtful of you."

"Sure," he said. "I'm thoughtful."

He glanced at me without the slightest interest. For that I was grateful. But Louise had to open her lovely rosebud mouth. Her voice was hopping with excitement. She was going to love this.

"Jack!" she said. "Take a look at this young lady."

He took a look at me. He said, "I'm looking at her and I'm enjoying it. But why?"

Louise giggled; this was rich. She said, "She don't mean a thing to you! Boy, you're not kidding . . . memory sure plays tricks. Honey," she said to me, "say something. Maybe he'll recognize your voice. Speak!"

"Bow-wow," I said. "Arf-arf."

"Down, boy," Jack said. "What is this?"

"Jack!" Louise cried. "It's Hester Frost!"

"Hester," Jack said, very slowly. "Hester Frost."

The name had rung a bell with him. His memory wasn't playing tricks. He was remembering, no doubt, that Dottie had told him about a babe named Hester Frost who had come snooping around, minding their business.

His face wasn't pleasant anymore. His lips thinned into a hard tough line. His eyes turned frigid. He looked like a kid who was handy with a switch blade and proud of it. He didn't like me at all. His attitude started the fright churning inside me.

Louise was saying, "She went to grade school with you, she's been telling me. Grade school!"

"Why, sure, yes!" Jack said. His voice was hearty, playing the big reunion, but his eyes were still frozen. "Sure, little Hester Frost! You sat beside me in Miss Koehler's room. Whatever happened to you?"

"Whatever happened to Miss Koehler?" I asked.

"Say, do you remember Archie Hall?"

"That stinker? Well, it's been swell seeing you again, Jack. I'll be running along now . . ."

I started for the door. His hand was around my right arm, just above the elbow. I had no idea dancing teachers were so strong. This was painful.

"What's the rush?" he said. "Let's have a drink down the street . . . for old time's sake."

"Thanks . . . but no."

"Go ahead, honey," Louise said. "It's all right. Dottie's not the jealous type."

"No, really . . . I'm late."

"I'll drive you there," Jack said. "Wherever it is."

"Don't bother, I . . ."

"It'll be a pleasure."

He steered me forcibly toward the door.

"Drop in again, Hester," Louise called after us. "This has been fun."

Jack Walston pulled me into the front seat of the car. He flicked on the headlights and started the motor, his right hand still on my wrist. I never had liked one-arm drivers; I hated this one. At the first corner he turned right. He stopped, parked in the middle of the block. He let go of my wrist. He swung his body around under the steering wheel to face me.

He said, "Hester Frost . . . is that your real name?"

"Of course."

He was silent for a moment.

"You got yourself a job teaching at Crescent . . . the morning after the murder. You got Anita Farrell's job. Coincidence, isn't it?"

"Somebody had to take her place," I said.

"But then you start prying into other people's affairs . . . why?"

I didn't answer him; I couldn't.

Again he said, "Why?"

I heard myself babbling something about being a special investigator for the police . . . that the cops wanted to know why he was so interested in Anita Farrell's apartment . . . that if he'd answer a few questions I might consider giving him a break.

He was laughing at me. He wasn't making any noise, but he was laughing.

"Hiya, Blondie," he said. "You're cute."

"Now, listen," I said, "I don't want to have any trouble with you."

"Mata," he said. "Mata Hari."

"You answer my questions and . . ."

"Oh, stop it," he said.

"You just answer my questions and I'll let you go."

"You'll let me go?" he asked quietly. "Look, you don't have me. I have you."

"Let's put it this way . . . we have each other."

He said, "Your hands are shaking."

I clenched my hands together, tight.

He said, "They should be shaking. I have a very vicious streak in me. I fight people who bother me . . . and Dottie."

With one of my shaking hands, I jammed down the door handle, shoved against the door with my shoulder. He grabbed at me and missed. I was out on the sidewalk. He got out the door on his side and started around the hood of the car toward me.

I scrambled back into the car, got the door closed and locked. I lurched across the seat and locked the other door just in time. I turned on the ignition, stepped on the starter. He was shaking the door handle.

The car lunged forward and sent him sprawling. As I turned the nearest corner, I saw him in the rear view mirror. He was on his feet again, his hands on his hips, watching me disappear.

I had got away from Jack Walston. I had learned a thing or two about him and Dottie Harris. I was doing better this evening than I had all day. But I didn't feel better for it.

The Barton family was going rapidly to seed. Mr. Barton was the Waltzer, that maniac killer that the police of the world's largest city were seeking. Mrs. Barton was, at the moment, driving the streets of Kew Gardens in a car she had stolen.

I abandoned it at the subway station. I parked it within sight of an honest looking cop and headed for home. I didn't duck under the turnstile. I paid my fare and that returned to me a little of my self respect. I wasn't completely unregenerate yet.

An unwelcome visitor is waiting at home for Connie as Chapter 17 of "The Blonde Died Dancing" continues here tomorrow.

Headaches May Trace To Emotional Conflict

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

CHANGE your attitude, not your brand of aspirin, if you have frequent headaches.

Most headaches are caused by tension—emotional conflicts.

Hostile Impulses

These conflicts take on various forms. Some, many doctors say most, tension headaches are caused by hostile impulses. This includes resentment, hostility and aggression against members of the family or against persons representing family figures.

Such feelings of hostility, in turn, bring about feelings of guilt. And sometimes the sense of guilt is actually relieved by the headaches.

Some cases of tension headache can be traced directly to the desire for perfection, the constant hard striving to obtain it and the anger experienced when it isn't reached.

Still others can be linked to an unconscious wish to remain dependent upon someone. Or they may be a means of gaining love and affection.

In the vast majority of cases, some stress situation is involved.

An aspirin or two, or maybe an empirin compound tablet, followed by a second one an hour later, probably will bring temporary relief.

But for a more permanent cure, you've got to change your attitude. To put it simply, you've got to learn to relax.

Set aside a certain period every day to relax and do absolutely nothing. And don't try to cram too much housework or business activities into one day. Cut down on your work schedule.

Little Things

No one is perfect, you know, so stop insisting on perfection for yourself and others. Accept people as they really are, not as you would have them. Don't let little things upset you.

And remember, even today's big problems will seem relatively unimportant a month or week from now. Even by tomorrow, the picture probably will be brighter.

In A Mental Straitjacket?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Famous folks often are asked what keeps them so young.

The secret seems to be that they don't always act their age.

Nothing really makes you feel and look older than your years than letting your calendar age put you in a mental straitjacket.

"When are you ever going to grow up?" is a rebuke often heard from the killjoys of this world.

If by growing up they mean when are you going to put away all childish pleasures and be deadly serious about everything, your answer should be a fervent, "Never, I hope!"

The trouble with people who always insist on being deadly serious is that they often become seriously dead before their time.

No one could say that statesman Winston Churchill, financier Bernard Baruch, architect Frank Lloyd Wright or Casey Stengel, the leading exponent of world championship baseball, haven't done well in their respective fields. But they are all young old men. Why? Because each has kept alive in him a small boy's sense of fun.

The adult who feels he is wasting time unless he is always thinking high thoughts or doing important deeds is guiltier of a greater waste. He commits a form of suicide. He murders the spirit of childhood in him, the child he once was and must somehow keep alive or else he'll turn forever old.

It works as simply as a formula: let the delight of childhood die within you, and you begin to wither, too.

And what does delight of childhood consist of? It consists of the feeling of joy you get in doing things, not because they are important, but because they are fun.

Celebrities, when they aren't busy being celebrities, often relax in pursuits that seem childish to the worldy dull. The smarter the celebrity the more likely he is to have this ability to forget his own importance now and then relive the pleasure of acting like a kid.

Mumford-Tinney Wedding Performed In Ashville

Groom Served Army 2 Years In Japan

The Church of Christ in Christian Union in Ashville was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carol LaVaun Mumford and Mr. Lawrence Carlton Tinney. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Dearth, grandfather of the bride.

The new Mrs. Tinney is the daughter of Mr. and the Rev. Mrs. Frank Mumford of Chillicothe Route 3. Mr. Tinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinney of Orwell, Pa.

The altar of the church was decorated with palms and baskets of pink gladiolus and two seven-branch candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Patty Wisecup of Bourneville, who also accompanied the soloist, the Rev. Robert Sayre of Columbus.

For her wedding the bride wore a colonial gown of white nylon lace over satin designed with a high standup collar and clasped at the throat with clusters of seed pearls. The high empire bodice was accentuated by small pleats of tulle and the sleeves came to points over the hands. The billowing chapel-length skirt was covered by two layers of tulle and one of nylon lace.

The bridal veil of illusion was finger-tip length and was held by a heart-shaped lace head covering dotted with pearl clusters and banded by pleated tulle. The bride carried a white pearl-covered Bible, a gift from the bridegroom, topped with a bouquet of pink rosebuds tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Edna Mendenhall, maid of honor, wore a blue taffeta and nylon net gown designed along colonial lines. Miss Teresa Herniz, Endicott, N. Y. was bridesmaid and wore a colonial-style pink taffeta. Both attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink and white shattered carnations.

Kathy Kocher of Ashville was flower girl. Her frock was of blue nylon with white lace trimming designed with a very full skirt. Danny Tipton, Ashville, ring bearer, carried the rings on a cushion that was a replica of the bride's headpiece.

Mr. Lloyd Barton of Ashville was best man and the bride's brothers, Wayne and Mark Mumford, were ushers.

The bride's mother chose a navy-blue and white dress with navy accessories and a corsage of pink shattered carnations. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend the wedding because she is hospitalized following an automobile accident.

A reception at the Ashville Community House followed the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped by pink rosebuds and a miniature bridal couple. The table was decorated with wedding bells and white satin bows.

Assisting at the reception were members of Mother Ward's Mantle Carriers, a women's association of the Ashville Church of which the bride's mother is a former pastor. Mrs. Lily Seymoure and Mrs. Clodia Oday were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Tinney was graduated from Bourneville High School and is a former employe of the Pickaway County News. After his graduation from Bourneville High School, Mr. Tinney entered the Army and has spent two years in Japan. Mr. and Mrs. Tinney have attended Circleville Bible College and plan to resume their studies soon.

They are living at 1313 Parsons Ave. in Columbus where the bridegroom is employed at the Omar Baking Co.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Mrs. Gladys Meadows and Mrs. Clesta Mets at the latter's home in Ashville and Mrs. David Dearth, Kingston Pike, grandmother of the bride.

Lady Golfers Plan Dinner

A day of golf was enjoyed Thursday by the ladies of the Pickaway Country Club. "Bingle, Bangle, Bungle" was played, with Mrs. Karl Mason, Mrs. E. F. Ridlon, Mrs. Jack Powell and Mrs. Ben Gordon as the winners.

Mrs. Ruth Athey and Mrs. Karl Mason tied for low gross.

Plans were made for the annual trophy dinner which will be held at the Club on November 11. Reservations must be in by November 4, and members are asked to telephone 1004.

Junior Woman's Club Tours Plastic Plant

A tour of the Lincoln Plastics plant highlighted the November meeting of the Circleville Junior Woman's Club Thursday evening.

As a part of the tour, members toured the offices and other parts of the building as well as the plant itself. They watched workmen through the complete process of converting chemical materials, by the use of heat and molds, to useful appliance parts.

Following the tour, the members met in the home of Mrs. Richard Penn of Springhollow Rd. for the business session, conducted by Mrs. Kenneth Luna, president of the club. A report was made by Mrs. William Speakman on the South East District Conference of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs which was held in Lancaster.

Members were reminded that November 4 to 10 is being observed as American Art week and that local artists have pictures on display in a number of public places in Circleville, and that American Home week will be observed November 25 to December 1. An announcement was also made that the General Federation of Women's clubs will have a weekly program of club news on television each Monday morning.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Larry Curl and Miss Regina Thornton, at the close of the meeting. The December meeting will be a dinner meeting with husbands of the members as guests.

Social Hour Group Gathers At Five Points

The Social Hour Group of Five Points met for a colorful party in the Five Points Methodist Church.

Sixty-five members and guests enjoyed the masquerade which was held in the decorated basement of the church. Many odd looking ghosts, hob-goblins and "spooks" wandered around, mingling with the crowd of weird characters.

The Senior Youth Group was in charge of the decorations and recreation, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brigner and family were hosts.

Prizes were given to Linda Stubbs, Linda Long, Sue Houser, Jeanette Ann Brigner, Harold Furniss and Larry Sheets.

The next meeting will be held in the church basement November 30, with Mr. and Mrs. Turney Sheets and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long as hosts.

Mumford-Tinney Wedding Performed In Ashville

Groom Served Army 2 Years In Japan

The Church of Christ in Christian Union in Ashville was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carol LaVaun Mumford and Mr. Lawrence Carlton Tinney. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Dearth, grandfather of the bride.

The new Mrs. Tinney is the daughter of Mr. and the Rev. Mrs. Frank Mumford of Chillicothe Route 3. Mr. Tinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinney of Orwell, Pa.

The altar of the church was decorated with palms and baskets of pink gladiolus and two seven-branch candelabra.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Patty Wisecup of Bourneville, who also accompanied the soloist, the Rev. Robert Sayre of Columbus.

For her wedding the bride wore a colonial gown of white nylon lace over satin designed with a high standup collar and clasped at the throat with clusters of seed pearls. The high empire bodice was accentuated by small pleats of tulle and the sleeves came to points over the hands. The billowing chapel-length skirt was covered by two layers of tulle and one of nylon lace.

The bridal veil of illusion was finger-tip length and was held by a heart-shaped lace head covering dotted with pearl clusters and banded by pleated tulle. The bride carried a white pearl-covered Bible, a gift from the bridegroom, topped with a bouquet of pink rosebuds tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Edna Mendenhall, maid of honor, wore a blue taffeta and nylon net gown designed along colonial lines. Miss Teresa Herniz, Endicott, N. Y. was bridesmaid and wore a colonial-style pink taffeta. Both attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink and white shattered carnations.

Kathy Kocher of Ashville was flower girl. Her frock was of blue nylon with white lace trimming designed with a very full skirt. Danny Tipton, Ashville, ring bearer, carried the rings on a cushion that was a replica of the bride's headpiece.

The Suffering Servant

ISAIAH PROPHESIES THE COMING OF JESUS AND HIS REJECTION AND DEATH

Scripture—Isaiah 52:13—53:12; Matthew 1:18-21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

CENTURIES before Jesus Christ was born, the prophet Isaiah foretold His coming, and these prophesies are the subject of our lesson today. How could the prophet foresee so clearly that when the promised Messiah came He would be rejected of men, suffer and die to save His people from their sins? God told this greatest of all the prophets of old.

Isaiah prophesied, it is thought, between 720 and 710 B. C. in Jerusalem. We read: "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised, and we esteemed Him not."

Except for the Apostles, the people whom He healed, and a few others, our Lord was indeed "despised and rejected of men," even though, as Isaiah says, those they profess to love.

Would we welcome with joy a Messiah such as Christ? Do we listen to those among us who are His followers in spirit and in truth, and who try to guide us into the "straight and narrow path" of righteousness?

"He was oppressed, and He was afflicted, yet He opened not His mouth; He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so He openeth not His mouth."

You will remember that when Jesus was brought before Herod, his enemies, the chief priests and scribes, were vehement in their denunciations and accusations of Him. Christ, however, refused to talk.

"Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief; when thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall send His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand."

The last verse of this portion of Isaiah reads like a summary of the foregoing.

"Therefore will I divide Him a portion with the great, and He shall divide the spoil with the strong; because He hath poured out His soul unto death; and He was numbered with the transgressors; and He bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors."

Even on the cross, our Savior made intercession for the transgressors when He pleaded: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Centuries later the prophesy came true. The Messiah came, born in a manger. St. Matthew tells how an angel of God came to Joseph, telling him that Mary would have a son, "And thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins."

MEMORY VERSE

"He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."—Isaiah 53.5.

"Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted.

"But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."

"All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." After all the centuries have passed since those words were uttered, we of this generation are sadly, still like lost sheep that have gone astray.

Christ told us to love one another; to forgive our enemies; to do good to those who abuse us, yet the newspapers are full of stories of crimes of revenge. Often those who call themselves Christians are cruel to one another, and even many times to

Scripture—Isaiah 52:13—53:12; Matthew 1:18-21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

CENTURIES before Jesus Christ was born, the prophet Isaiah foretold His coming, and these prophesies are the subject of our lesson today. How could the prophet foresee so clearly that when the promised Messiah came He would be rejected of men, suffer and die to save His people from their sins? God told this greatest of all the prophets of old.

Isaiah prophesied, it is thought, between 720 and 710 B.C. in Jerusalem. We read: "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised, and we esteemed Him not."

Except for the Apostles, the people whom He healed, and a few others, our Lord was indeed "despised and rejected of men," even though, as Isaiah says, those they profess to love.

Would we welcome with joy a Messiah such as Christ? Do we listen to those among us who are His followers in spirit and in truth, and who try to guide us into the "straight and narrow path" of righteousness?

"He was oppressed, and He was afflicted, yet He opened not His mouth; He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so He openeth not His mouth."

You will remember that when Jesus was brought before Herod, his enemies, the chief priests and scribes, were vehement in their denunciations and accusations of Him. Christ, however, refused to talk.

"Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief; when thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall send His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in His hand."

The last verse of this portion of Isaiah reads like a summary of the foregoing.

"Therefore will I divide Him a portion with the great, and He shall divide the spoil with the strong; because He hath poured out His soul unto death; and He was numbered with the transgressors; and He bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors."

Even on the cross, our Savior made intercession for the transgressors when He pleaded: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Centuries later the prophesy came true. The Messiah came, born in a manger. St. Matthew tells how an angel of God came to Joseph, telling him that Mary would have a son, "And thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins."

Income, Outgo Both Gain For Ohio's Cities

Ohio's 141 cities had receipts totaling $848,942,692 last year and expenditures of $834,916,973, according to annual financial reports submitted by local officials to State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

In 1954, the receipts of 139 cities were $808,516,784 and disbursements were $792,300,283.

Revenue was up approximately $40½ million in 1955 over the preceding year, while disbursements were $42½ million higher.

Two new cities are included in the 1955 statistics on cities for the first time. They are Fairfield in Butler County, and Kettering, suburb of Dayton in Montgomery County.

* * *

MAJOR SOURCES of the cities' receipts were the general and classified property tax, $117,569,697; revenue from waterworks, $55,705,117; income tax, $34,102,637; electric plants, $25,572,966; transit systems (mostly Cleveland), $30,917,653; sewer rentals, $9,418,024; Gasoline tax, $16,757,202; Hospitals, $714,671,548; motor vehicle licenses, $12,552,696; special assessments, $12,531,033; sales tax, $12,157,089; universities, $10,432,549; fines, costs and forfeitures, $9,575,019; intangible tax, $8,701,439; interest on deposits and investments, $7,172,323; liquor and beer permits, $5,648,362; parking meters, $5,003,753.

Taxes of various kinds accounted for 48.35 percent of the cities revenue in 1955. Receipts from public service enterprises such as waterworks, electric plants, transit systems, airports, cemeteries, gas plants and markets were 26.92 percent of cities income.

Of the $835 million in disbursements, $345,217,012 went for operation, maintenance and interest; $151,089,695 for capital improvements, and $338,610,266 for non-governmental expenditures such as retirement of bonds.

Alaska, which was purchased from Russia in 1867, was called a district until Aug. 24, 1912, when it became a territory.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I love my fiance very much and plan to marry next March. He has been so faithful and loving to me. He calls every day and we see each other three or four times a week.

I don't doubt his love, but he never tells me he loves me. Naturally I want to hear him say that. I figure if he loves me he will tell me, so I certainly am not going to ask him!

Could you please help, by explaining his attitude. I can't see myself telling him every day that I love him, while never having him say it to me. The situation really worries me.

E. V.

DEAR E. V.: Of course we could be philosophical and sigh "One can't have everything"—and emphasize such virtues of character and behavor as your fiance does manifest. But really, you do have the makings of a long-term problem here, in his verbally noncommittal kind of devotion.

The keenest psychologists are pointing out that we lose the capacity to feel the good human feelings we don't express; and, by the same token, feelings translated into expressive words and appropriate gestures tend to grow in vitality and scope.

Thus to say sincerely "I love you" and recite the appreciative reasons why, helps to increase the magnitude and depths of your delight in the beloved while, at the same time, promoting the growth of a reciprocal fund of love for yourself.

Failure to nourish cherished relationships, with frequent fresh phrasing of love and appreciation, has a withering effect on mutual feeling. Such neglect, whether due to selfishness, thoughtlessness, awkward inarticulacy or a social tradition of being "emotionally contained," plays a large part in making marriage a stale routine.

It seems that part of your problem may be that you are almost as "contained" as your fiance, not at all the molten adoring type; and that you rather look to him to rescue you from the emotional deep freeze, as it were—while (possibly) he would be grateful if you would set the pace of romantic revelation.

You say in a pouting tone that you can't emphasize your love of him, if he doesn't speak first. But isn't that making feeble excuses for yourself? After all, he has given you sufficient cue, in wanting to be your husband.

In any case, to solve the stalemate, if it can be solved, you might try the following: (1) Tell him what is in your heart, of love and appreciation, when events make such speech appropriate, (2) tactfully acquaint him with your heart hunger for the same kind of "giving" from him, (3) Remember the Golden Rule.

M. H.

Ninth Grader Told To Wait For Reply

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) says he's sorry, but ninth-grader Lynda Hambrick will just have to wait a week for an answer to a question she poses in a letter to him.

"Lack of a heavy-duty crystal ball," he wrote, makes it necessary for me to forego responding to your request until Nov. 7."

Miss Hambrick had written:

"Would you please send all election information, including which way your state will vote, for a ninth grade scrapbook that I'm making."

Youngsters Held For Freeing Barges

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two youngsters were in custody of juvenile authorities today after they allegedly released six barges loaded with coal which had tied up at the bank of the Ohio River.

Employes of the Hatfield Coal Co., owner of the barges, learned of the vandalism so quickly a towboat was able to round up the barges before they reached the middle of the river.

Had the barges, loaded with 50,000 tons of coal, reached midstream, they could have caused considerable damage to bridges and other boats, with a possible loss of life, company officials said.

The boys were said to be 11 and 12 years old, respectively.

General Doctor Boomed By Prof

CLEVELAND (AP) — Doctors attending a session of the Ohio Academy of General Practice here were told that hospitals and the medical profession in general should treat the general practitioner better.

Said Dr. Robert A. Davison, professor of general practice at the University of Tennessee: "If the G. P. is to continue his historic place, let's define his rights, evaluate his capabilities, encourage him and cooperate with him."

Mexico Boosting Output Of Cement

MEXICO CITY — Two new cement plants are expected to boost Mexico's output by 200,000 tons during 1957, a total annual production of 2,300,000 tons.

The total production in 1948 was 500,000. The nation's rapid growth has been a constant challenge to production.

Dior Says U. S. Women Can Dress Smartly

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

If any American woman today is not well dressed, no matter what her budget, it's nobody's fault but her own, says the world's most famous dressmaker.

Mild, balding, conservatively dressed Christian Dior smiled diffidently as he took a few minutes out of his crowded schedule to discuss the state of the nation's fashion. Tilting back in an office chair in his plush New York salon, this dictator of world fashion said:

"Only in America is it possible for every woman to be smartly dressed in inexpensive readymade clothes. In Europe and other countries the fashionably dressed woman must have her clothes custom - made, and she must be wealthy. Here smart clothes in good taste are available to everybody. I think the women of the United states should erect a monument to New York's Seventh Avenue."

In the ten years since the then unknown Dior of Paris burst the bombshell of the "New Look" upon the world of fashion, this modest and unassuming man has built up a fantastic business empire reaching practically every corner of the earth and influencing the way women look each season all over the world.

Sheppard Story Admitted Hoax

CLEVELAND (AP) — Refusing to say why she did it, a 19-year-old girl has admitted she made up a story which spurred Assistant Prosecutor Saul S. Danaceau into asking for a reopening of the investigation of the murder of Marilyn Sheppard in 1954.

The case, said Danaceau, "is now a closed incident."

The girl, Miss Margaret Jackson of Cleveland, was taken back to a Wheeling, W. Va., religious school where she has been living.

Danaceau had talked with her there last week and said she told him a lurid story of how a male acquaintance had fought with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard just before the death of Sheppard's wife.

Income, Outgo Both Gain For Ohio's Cities

Ohio's 141 cities had receipts totaling $848,942,692 last year and expenditures of $834,916,973, according to annual financial reports submitted by local officials to State Auditor James A. Rhodes.

In 1954, the receipts of 139 cities were $808,516,784 and disbursements were $792,300,283.

Revenue was up approximately $40½ million in 1955 over the preceding year, while disbursements were $42½ million higher.

Two new cities are included in the 1955 statistics on cities for the first time. They are Fairfield in Butler County, and Kettering, suburb of Dayton in Montgomery County.

* * *

MAJOR SOURCES of the cities' receipts were the general and classified property tax, $117,569,697; revenue from waterworks, $55,705,117; income tax, $34,102,637; electric plants, $25,572,966; transit systems (mostly Cleveland), $30,917,653; sewer rentals, $19,418,024; Gasoline tax, $16,757,202; Hospitals, $714,671,548; motor vehicle licenses, $12,552,696; special assessments, $12,531,033; sales tax, $12,157,089; universities, $10,432,549; fines, costs and forfeitures, $9,575,019; intangible tax, $8,701,439; interest on deposits and investments, $7,172,323; liquor and beer permits, $5,648,362; parking meters, $5,003,753.

Taxes of various kinds account for 48.35 percent of the cities revenue in 1955. Receipts from public service enterprises such as waterworks, electric plants, transit systems, airports, cemeteries, gas plants and markets were 26.92 percent of cities income.

Of the $835 million in disbursements, $345,217,012 went for operation, maintenance and interest; $151,089,695 for capital improvements, and $338,610,265 for non-governmental expenditures such as retirement of bonds.

Alaska, which was purchased from Russia in 1867, was called a district until Aug. 24, 1912, when it became a territory.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I love my fiance very much and plan to marry next March. He has been so faithful and loving to me. He calls every day and we see each other three or four times a week.

I don't doubt his love, but he never tells me he loves me. Naturally I want to hear him say that. I figure if he loves me he will tell me, so I certainly am not going to ask him!

Could you please help, by explaining his attitude. I can't see myself telling him every day that I love him, while never having him say it to me. The situation really worries me.

E. V.

DEAR E. V.: Of course we could be philosophical and sigh "One can't have everything"—and emphasize such virtues of character and behavor as your fiance does manifest. But really, you do have the makings of a long-term problem here, in his verbally noncommittal kind of devotion.

The keenest psychologists are pointing out that we lose the capacity to feel the good human feelings we don't express; and, by the same token, feelings translated into expressive words and appropriate gestures tend to grow in vitality and scope.

Thus to say sincerely "I love you" and recite the appreciative reasons why, helps to increase the magnitude and depths of your delight in the beloved while, at the same time, promoting the growth of a reciprocal fund of love for yourself.

Failure to nourish cherished relationships, with frequent fresh phrasing of love and appreciation, has a withering effect on mutual feeling. Such neglect, whether due to selfishness, thoughtlessness, awkward inarticulacy or a social tradition of being "emotionally contained," plays a large part in making marriage a stale routine.

It seems that part of your problem may be that you are almost as "contained" as your fiance, not at all the molten adoring type; and that you rather look to him to rescue you from the emotional deep freeze, as it were—while (possibly) he would be grateful if you would set the pace of romantic revelation.

You say in a pouting tone that you can't emphasize your love of him, if he doesn't speak first. But isn't that making feeble excuses for yourself? After all, he has given you sufficient cue, in wanting to be your husband.

In any case, to solve the stalemate, if it can be solved, you might try the following: (1) Tell him what is in your heart, of love and appreciation, when events make such speech appropriate, (2) tactfully acquaint him with your heart hunger for the same kind of "giving" from him, (3) Remember the Golden Rule.

Ninth Grader Told To Wait For Reply

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah) says he's sorry, but ninth-grader Lynda Hambrick will just have to wait a week for an answer to a question she poses in a letter to him.

"Lack of a heavy-duty crystal ball," he wrote, makes it necessary for me to forego responding to your request until Nov. 7."

Miss Hambrick had written:

"Would you please send all election information, including which way your state will vote, for a ninth grade scrapbook that I'm making."

Youngsters Held For Freeing Barges

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Two youngsters were in custody of juvenile authorities today after they allegedly released six barges loaded with coal which had tied up at the bank of the Ohio River.

Employes of the Hatfield Coal Co., owner of the barges, learned of the vandalism so quickly a towboat was able to round up the barges before they reached the middle of the river.

Had the barges, loaded with 50,000 tons of coal, reached midstream, they could have caused considerable damage to bridges and other boats, with a possible loss of life, company officials said.

The boys were said to be 11 and 12 years old, respectively.

U. S. Business Puzzled By Middle East

Real War Or Peace Could Upset Plans Made By Economists

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen—and stock traders—are just as puzzled today as you may be as to who is doing what to whom in the Middle East.

But they are aware that a real war will upset many of their carefuly laid plans.

And so would a real peace—supposing that the goings on in Eastern Europe might signal an end to the role of bogeyman that Russia has played for 10 years, and that the Suez Canal affair might end in effecting a settlement of the long smoldering strife in the Middle East.

American business plans for some time have been built to fit an economy suporting an expensive defense program and an economy using to the hilt all the resources of manpower and materials in civilian pursuits with little leeway for a military emergency.

Initial reactions to the threat of war in the Middle East follow the traditional pattern. Stock prices dropped—traders preferred cash to the risks in an uncertain situation. Commodity prices rose — traders feared suplies of such things as rubber, tin and other metals might be cut off. And, besides, a war coming on top of an economy running at full throttle would double and triple the threat of further inflation.

War risk insurance rates on shipments to the Middle East went up five to seven times. Shipping companies and airlines began diverting their cargo carriers, tankers and planes from the Suez Canal, even before it was blocked.

Oilmen's plans to supply Europe from the Western Hemisphere if Middle East oil was cut off went into abeyance for a time when Washington canceled a meeting of the Middle East Emergency Committee (a group of American oil exports) until the stand of the United States in the crisis was clarified.

On the other hand, to ease a critical tanker shortage, the Maritime Administration is planning to sell 6 tankers.

Some 800,000 barrels of oil a day have been going through the Suez to Europe and some 350,000 more coming by that route to the U. S. East Coast. While the canal is blocked, tankers will have to carry the oil around Africa or make up for it by carrying American and Venezuelan oil to Europe.

A tanker shortage will be the chief stumbling block — there's plenty of oil in this hemisphere for all.

Big Cleveland Newspapers Shut By Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — This city's three large daily newspapers, which serve a population of well over a million, were shut down today.

Radio and television stations have expanded greatly the number and length of their newscasts.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, a morning newspaper, was "discontinued" until further notice by Forest City Publishing Co. Thursday night. The same company had discontinued its afternoon newspaper, the Cleveland News, late Thursday afternoon.

The Cleveland Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, stopped publishing because of a strike which began at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, called by the Press unit of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild.

The principal issue in an unsuccessful attempt to reach a new contract was a union demand of wage increases. Guild contracts at all three papers expired Wednesday night.

Shortly before the Press was struck, a mediator reported management had offered wage increases ranging from $3 to $6 this year and $2.50 and $4.50 next year.

Originally the guild's demands included wage increases of 22½ per cent, an increase in the minimum pay of experienced newsmen from $122.50 a week to $145 a week; and contract changes covering job security, union security and several fringe benefits. Later it reduced the demands to wage increases of $5 to $7.50 this year, plus $4 and $5 next year, and a minimum for experienced newsmen of $135.

At the Press the build represents about 400 editorial and commercial employes. At Forest City the bargaining unit includes about 300.

Majority Of Ohio Editors Like Ike, Bender, O'Neill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's newspaper editors overwhelmingly support the re-election of President Eisenhower, and GOP Sen. George H. Bender and the elevation of Republican Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill to the governor's office.

This has been made apparent by the results of an Associated Press survey of an even 100 Ohio newspapers.

Not every newspaper replying to the AP's questionnaire made endorsements in every one of the three major races in Ohio and some made no editorial endorsement at all. There were eight in the latter group.

Of the 100 newspapers which replied, 58 listed themselves as normally leaning to the Republican cause, 12 leaning to the Democrats and 30 declared themselves politically independent.

The survey showed that 81 of the 90 editors who made an endorsement in next Tuesday's presidential race prefer President Eisenhower over his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Sen. Bender got the nod from 52 of the 80 editors who made a choice in the senate race. But of the 28 endorsements received by his Democratic opponent — five-term Gov. Frank J. Lausche — 21 came from newspapers which are supporting Eisenhower and O'Neill.

O'Neill has the endorsement of 78 of the 87 newspapers which made a recommendation in the gubernatorial contest. Democratic candidate Michael V. DiSalle, like Stevenson, won nine endorsements from the 100 newspapers which replied.

Replies were received from 44 daily newspapers—13 in the so-called metropolitan group—and from 56 weekly newspapers.

In the big-city group, only the Toledo Blade is backing Stevenson and DiSalle. Eisenhower has the support of 12 and O'Neill is backed by 11. But the gap narrows on the senate race, where Bender has an 8-5 edge over Lausche.

Five big papers which support Eisenhower and O'Neill are backing Lausche. They are the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Cleveland Press, the Youngstown Vindicator, the Akron Beacon Journal and the Columbus Citizen. The Toledo Blade endorsements are diametrically the opposite — Stevenson, DiSalle and Bender.

Eight of the metropolitan newspapers which replied listed themselves as independent; the other five listed Republican leanings.

Among the 31 smaller-city daily newspapers which replied to the survey, six made no endorsements at all. Eighteen said they were Republican, four said they leaned to the Democratic side and nine said they are independent. Of those who expressed preferences, this was the score:

Eisenhower 22, Stevenson 2
Bender 13, Lausche 7.
O'Neill 22, DiSalle 2.

Again in this group, six newspapers which are backing both Eisenhower and O'Neill jumped the political fence to endorse Lausche.

Fifty-six weekly newspapers replied, but two made no endorsements, they reported. In this group of newspapers are 35 which call themselves Republican, 8 which list themselves as Democratic and 13 which say they are independent.

The trend established among the dailies holds for the weeklies.

President Eisenhower got 47 of the 53 endorsements in next Tuesday's top race: Stevenson got the other six. Bender outscores Lausche, 31-16, but again it must be noted that 9 of Lausche's 16 endorsements came from newspapers supporting Republicans in other races.

An oddity of the results was this: Stevenson and DiSalle got exactly the same number of endorsements—in the overall total and in each newspaper group. Each got 9, one each from the big city dailies, two each from small-city dailies and six each from the weeklies.

Survivors Told Of New Law On VA Benefits

Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer James Shea today announced that persons in the area receiving survivors compensation payments from the Veterans Administration for service-connected deaths may continue to receive the present benefits or may elect to apply for compensation under a new Servicemen's and Veterans Survivor Benefits Act.

Service Officer Shea said the new law is quite complicated and he suggested that all beneficiaries contact him at his court house office before they make a decision whether to apply for benefits under the new law, or continue their compensation under the old law.

The new public law (881) is a compensation law, with eligible beneficiaries being survivors of men who died service connected deaths. The act does not apply to survivors of veterans whose deaths were not service-connected.

Persons presently receiving compensation benefits will receive a pamphlet explaining the the act along with their October checks.

* * *

UNDER this new law, it may be possible for beneficiaries to receive larger monthly payments than they are now getting.

The information pamphlet will explain certain important provisions of the act and will serve to advise beneficiaries of what action must be taken before payments can be made under the law.

Shea went on to say that the minimum monthly payment for a widow under the new law will be $122. This amount, he added, could vary, depending upon the rank of the widow's husband and his length of service. The effective date of the new act is Jan. 1, 1957.

American business plans for some time have been built to fit an economy suporting an expensive defense program and an economy using to the hilt all the resources of manpower and materials in civilian pursuits with little leeway for a military emergency.

Initial reactions to the threat of war in the Middle East follow the traditional pattern. Stock prices dropped—traders preferred cash to the risks in an uncertain situation. Commodity prices rose — traders feared suplies of such things as rubber, tin and other metals might be cut off. And, besides, a war coming on top of an economy running at full throttle would double and triple the threat of further inflation.

War risk insurance rates on shipments to the Middle East went up five to seven times. Shipping companies and airlines began diverting their cargo carriers, tankers and planes from the Suez Canal, even before it was blocked.

Oilmen's plans to supply Europe from the Western Hemisphere if Middle East oil was cut off went into abeyance for a time when Washington canceled a meeting of the Middle East Emergency Committee (a group of American oil exports) until the stand of the United States in the crisis was clarified.

On the other hand, to ease a critical tanker shortage, the Maritime Administration is planning to sell 6 tankers.

Some 800,000 barrels of oil a day have been going through the Suez to Europe and some 350,000 more coming by that route to the U. S. East Coast. While the canal is blocked, tankers will have to carry the oil around Africa or make up for it by carrying American and Venezuelan oil to Europe.

A tanker shortage will be the chief stumbling block — there's plenty of oil in this hemisphere for all.

Big Cleveland Newspapers Shut By Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — This city's three large daily newspapers, which serve a population of well over a million, were shut down today.

Radio and television stations have expanded greatly the number and length of their newscasts.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, a morning newspaper, was "discontinued" until further notice by Forest City Publishing Co. Thursday night. The same company had discontinued its afternoon newspaper, the Cleveland News, late Thursday afternoon.

The Cleveland Press, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, stopped publishing because of a strike which began at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, called by the Press unit of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild.

The principal issue in an unsuccessful attempt to reach a new contract was a union demand of wage increases. Guild contracts at all three papers expired Wednesday night.

Shortly before the Press was struck, a mediator reported management had offered wage increases ranging from $3 to $6 this year and $2.50 and $4.50 next year.

Originally the guild's demands included wage increases of 22½ per cent, an increase in the minimum pay of experienced newsmen from $122.50 a week to $145 a week; and contract changes covering job security, union security and several fringe benefits. Later it reduced the demands to wage increases of $5 to $7.50 this year, plus $4 and $5 next year, and a minimum for experienced newsmen of $135.

At the Press the build represents about 400 editorial and commercial employes. At Forest City the bargaining unit includes about 300.

Majority Of Ohio Editors Like Ike, Bender, O'Neill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's newspaper editors overwhelmingly support the re-election of President Eisenhower, and GOP Sen. George H. Bender and the elevation of Republican Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill to the governor's office.

This has been made apparent by the results of an Associated Press survey of an even 100 Ohio newspapers.

Not every newspaper replying to the AP's questionnaire made endorsements in every one of the three major races in Ohio and some made no editorial endorsement at all. There were eight in the latter group.

Of the 100 newspapers which replied, 58 listed themselves as normally leaning to the Republican cause, 12 leaning to the Democrats and 30 declared themselves politically independent.

The survey showed that 81 of the 90 editors who made an endorsement in next Tuesday's presidential race prefer President Eisenhower over his Democratic opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Sen. Bender got the nod from 52 of the 80 editors who made a choice in the senate race. But of the 28 endorsements received by his Democratic opponent — five-term Gov. Frank J. Lausche — 21 came from newspapers which are supporting Eisenhower and O'Neill.

O'Neill has the endorsement of 78 of the 87 newspapers which made a recommendation in the gubernatorial contest. Democratic candidate Michael V. DiSalle, like Stevenson, won nine endorsements from the 100 newspapers which replied.

Replies were received from 44 daily newspapers—13 in the so-called metropolitan group—and from 56 weekly newspapers.

In the big-city group, only the Toledo Blade is backing Stevenson and DiSalle. Eisenhower has the support of 12 and O'Neill is backed by 11. But the gap narrows on the senate race, where Bender has an 8-5 edge over Lausche.

Five big papers which support Eisenhower and O'Neill are backing Lausche. They are the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Cleveland Press, the Youngstown Vindicator, the Akron Beacon Journal and the Columbus Citizen. The Toledo Blade endorsements are diametrically the opposite — Stevenson, DiSalle and Bender.

Eight of the metropolitan newspapers which replied listed themselves as independent; the other five listed Republican leanings.

Among the 31 smaller-city daily newspapers which replied to the survey, six made no endorsements at all. Eighteen said they were Republican, four said they leaned to the Democratic side and nine said they are independent. Of those who expressed preferences, this was the score:

Eisenhower 22, Stevenson 2
Bender 13, Lausche 7.
O'Neill 22, DiSalle 2.

Again in this group, six newspapers which are backing both Eisenhower and O'Neill jumped the political fence to endorse Lausche.

Fifty-six weekly newspapers replied, but two made no endorsements, they reported. In this group of newspapers are 35 which call themselves Republican, 8 which list themselves as Democratic and 13 which say they are independent.

The trend established among the dailies holds for the weeklies.

President Eisenhower got 47 of the 53 endorsements in next Tuesday's top race: Stevenson got the other six. Bender outscores Lausche, 31-16, but again it must be noted that 9 of Lausche's 16 endorsements came from newspapers supporting Republicans in other races.

An oddity of the results was this: Stevenson and DiSalle got exactly the same number of endorsements—in the overall total and in each newspaper group. Each got 9, one each from the big city dailies, two each from small-city dailies and six each from the weeklies.

Survivors Told Of New Law On VA Benefits

Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer James Shea today announced that persons in the area receiving survivors compensation payments from the Veterans Administration for service-connected deaths may continue to receive the present benefits or may elect to apply for compensation under a new Servicemen's and Veterans Survivor Benefits Act.

Service Officer Shea said the new law is quite complicated and he suggested that all beneficiaries contact him at his court house office before they make a decision whether to apply for benefits under the new law, or continue their compensation under the old law.

The new public law (881) is a compensation law, with eligible beneficiaries being survivors of men who died service connected deaths. The act does not apply to survivors of veterans whose deaths were not service-connected.

Persons presently receiving compensation benefits will receive a pamphlet explaining the the act along with their October checks.

* * *

UNDER this new law, it may be possible for beneficiaries to receive larger monthly payments than they are now getting.

The information pamphlet will explain certain important provisions of the act and will serve to advise beneficiaries of what action must be taken before payments can be made under the law.

Shea went on to say that the minimum monthly payment for a widow under the new law will be $122. This amount, he added, could vary, depending upon the rank of the widow's husband and his length of service. The effective date of the new act is Jan. 1, 1957.

Buckeye Grid Spotlight On Bowling Green

High-Flying Falcons Due To Tangle With Mighty Miami '11'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buckeye State's collegiate football spotlight Saturday will swing directly to Bowling Green, on the upsurge under the deft handling of Coach Doyt Perry, will try to knock Miami's defending champions off the Mid-American Conference throne.

For 11 straight games the Redskins have triumphed over the Bee-Gees, turning the trick last year by 7-0 to shove Bowling Green into a second-place tie in the rugged circuit.

This year the two powerhouses go into the game with identical 4-0 records, with the title riding on the outcome. All the others in the loop have dropped at least two games.

Bowling Green, in four league tilts, has outscored the foe 109-37, and Miami has an 84-35 advantage. The Falcons are tops in the loop on offense with a 377-yard average, and on defense with 198. Miami is second in each category, with figures of 326 and 233.

In the nine years Miami has been a member of the Mid-American, the Redskins have never lost a game to to a team now holding membership in the loop. They've won 32, lost 3 and tied one league game over that stretch, and in the last two years chalked up victories over Indiana and Northwestern of the Big Ten.

But the Bee-Gees are out to end the Miami monopoly under Perry, who has a record of 14 wins, one loss and one tie for his two campaigns at Bowling Green. The Falcon mentor is the first Bowling Green grad to coach the Bee-Gees, having quarterbacked the 1929-30-31 teams through an 18-game winning streak.

Since starting football in 1919, Bowling Green has never enjoyed an unbeaten-untied season. Miami has had six of 'em since 1889, and was unbeaten but tied in five others. The 1917 team was perfect, winning all its games by shutouts.

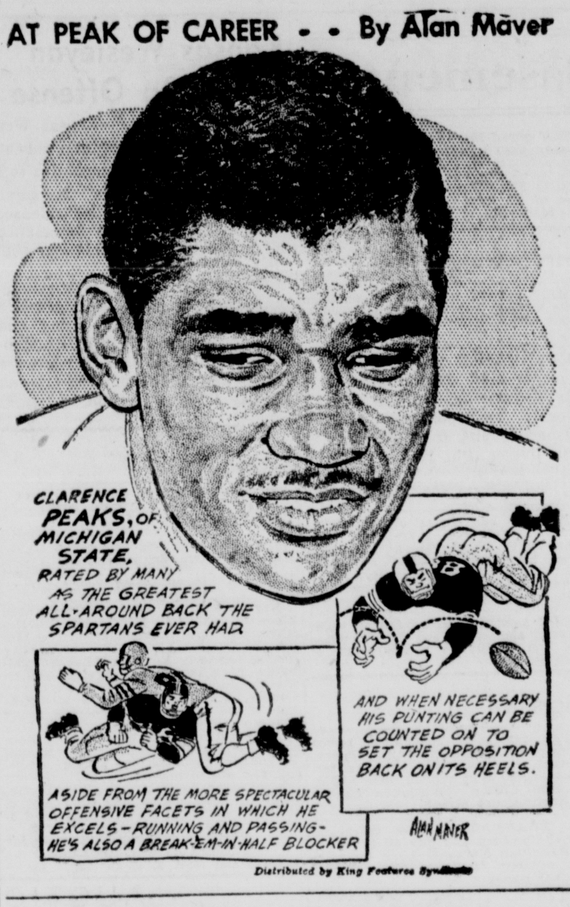

The Miami-Bowling Green classic is the headliner of a 23-game Saturday slate involving the Ohio colleges.

Dayton, which lost 26-13 to Xavier last week for its fourth straight loss—first time since 1923 the Flyers have bowed four times in a row—meet Louisville in a night game. The Flyers are counting on Don (Butch) Zimmerman, southpaw quarterback who has been out for five games, to get them back on the victory trail.

In the Mid-American, Toledo invades Kent State, and Ohio U. goes to Western Michigan, to decide the lower spots in the standing—with Ohio U. seeking its first win in seven starts.

Other games include Akron at Oberlin, Marietta at Capital, Heidelberg at Mount Union, Muskingum at Otterbein, and Wittenberg at Wooster, all in the Ohio Conference; Bluffton at Ashland in the Mid-Ohio League, with Bluffton needing a win to wrap up the undisputed title; Western Reserve at John Carroll in the Presidents' Conference; Denison at Ohio Northern, and Ohio Wesleyan at Baldwin Wallace in non-conference contests; and interstate games sending Bethany to Hiram, Kenyon to Hamilton, Defiance to Taylor, Findlay to Waynesburg, Wilmington to Earlham, Detroit to Cincinnati, Colorado A. & M. to Xavier, Case Tech to Edinboro, Pa., Teachers, and Marshall to Youngstown.

Leading Teams Of Nation Expected To Win Handily

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma, Georgia Tech and Tennessee, the 1-2-3 of the nation's college football clubs, are expected to hold tight to their honors through another heavy football weekend.

The firing on the top 10 starts tonight at Miami's Orange Bowl, where the University of Miami, ranked ninth, meets Florida State. Boston will be the scene of another Friday night contest involving Boston College and Villanova.

Oklahoma is supposed to bowl over Colorado for its 36th straight Saturday. It will be a fight for the lead in the Big Seven, but it will take a Colorado earthquake to derail the No. 1 team.

Georgia Tech invades Duke for a prime Southern game. Unbeaten Tech, with five in a row, is favored.

Tennessee's third-ranked Vols take on Coach Jim Tatum's North Carolina team at home, where they expect to roll to a sixth straight.

Michigan State hopes to make up for last week's upset by Illinois by thumping a Wisconsin team that has won only once.

The big game in the Western Conference finds unbeaten Iowa entertaining a Michigan club that could be on the rebound after its 20-7 loss to Minnesota. If Michigan wins, Ohio State can take over the conference lead by thumping Northwestern.

The Texas Aggies must whip Arkansas Saturday night to stay out front in the Southwest Conference if Southern Methodist does the expected by beating Texas.

Stanford can bolster its Rose Bowl situation by following last week's victory over Southern California with a convincing decision over UCLA.

Eastern fans will have an eye on the clash of two powerful teams, Penn State and Syracuse, each with 4-1 records. Pitt, which topped Syracuse in early season, has a rugged intersectional date at Minnesota. The Colgate-Army battle is another top Eastern game.

Other games include:

East

Holy Cross - Boston University, Lehigh-Temple.

South

Kentucky - Maryland, Georgia-Alabama, Auburn-Florida, Mississippi at Louisiana State, Mississippi State - Tulane, North Carolina State - Wake Forest, Vanderbilt-Virginia.

Midwest

Marquette - Indiana, Drake-Iowa State, Kansas-Kansas State, Missouri - Nebraska, Oklahoma A&M. - Texas Tech, Houston-Wichita, Cincinnati-Detroit.

Far West

New Mexico - Brigham Young, Denver-San Jose State.

Wagering during the 50-day harness racing meet at Freehold, N. J., reached a new high of $8,699,367 during 1956. The increase was 31 per cent above 1955.

Marion Said In Line For 2 Pilot Jobs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Marty Marion has been out of a job only eight days and already there's talk about him managing two other major league ball clubs.

The 38-year-old Marion was droped as manager of the Chicago White Sox after piloting them to a third-place finish in the American League.

One rumor had it Marion and Al Lopez, manager of the second-place Cleveland Indians, were to swap jobs. Lopez was named manager of the White Sox.

Leo Durocher's name popped into the Cleveland picture but he turned it down. Marion was back in front again.

The Globe-Democrat said today it learned from a reliable source Marion might come back to the St. Louis Cardinals, with Manager Fred Hutchinson moving over to Cleveland.

Marion, onetime "Mr. Shortstop" of the Redbirds, said on a television show Thursday night: "I don't know anything about it."

The Globe quoted its source as saying the Marion - Hutchinson move was being discussed by the two clubs.

It pointed to the fact that General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians and Hutchinson were teammates at Detroit while Marion and Cardinal General Manager Frank Lane were associated with the White Sox.

Out-of-Season Cage Practice Pondered

COLUMBUS (AP) — Commissioner Harold Emswiler of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. says officials at Columbus St. Mary have admitted the school practiced basketball out of season.

Emswiler said he expects to receive a report today from the Rev. Bennett C. Applegate, a diocesan superintendent of Roman Catholic schools, on "what action the school has taken."

St. Mary Coach Ken Neville admitted scrimmaging his team against a Corning group in Fairfield County Oct. 12. A Nov. 1 starting date for Ohio high school basketball teams was passed last December by a referendum vote of principals. Schools that do not have football are allowed to start Oct. 1. Corning does not play football, but St. Mary does.

Dayton To Host 4 Major Events

DAYTON (AP) — Four national championship events in the field of sports will be held here next year.

The schedule: National AAU Track-Field Championships, June 28-29; the National PGA Golf Championship, July 17-21; the Grand American Trapshoot, Aug. 16-24, and the Women's International Bowling Congress, beginning April 11 and running for about two months.

Dow Finsterwald Improvement Hailed

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, in his second full tourney year, and Marlene Bauer Hagge were named "most improved professionals" of 1956 by Golf Digest magazine Thursday.

Finsterwald, 27, climbed from a 14th finish among 1955 money-winners to second behind Ted Kroll this year. Through the Western Open, Finsterwald, a slender 155-pounder, had earned $28,113 compared with $15,386 last year.

No Politics Being Talked At Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP)—There seemed to be an unspoken agreement on all sides not to discuss politics or world affairs today as the athletes moved into the homelike atmosphere of the Olympic Village.

More than 300 athletes are now living in the village and more are arriving daily. But seldom is a word heard about the Middle East and Eastern Europe situations.

Wednesday night the first Dutch contingent arrived. Three Poles moved into the village Thursday and a contingent of 11 Swedes was due today.

The first Soviets are expected today and the Americans Nov. 8.

There is a special dining room for the Americans.

Told that Americans like steak, the manager said, "We could give them all six steaks three times a day if they like. We're here to give them anything they want. We've had our best cattle especially set aside to provide the meat to feed the athletes at these games and we have a great supply of 14-ounce steaks."

In the dining room for Oriental teams, there is complete Oriental cuisine including ricebowls, small tea cups without handles and chopsticks.

Nationalist China and Communist China will have tables in different rooms.

Tommy Henrich To Join Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Henrich has joined the 'enemy.' For years a fixture in right field with the New York Yankees, Henrich returns to baseball in 1957 after a six-year lapse as a coach under manager Billy Rigney of the New York Giants.

Henrich turned down an offer from the Yankees to manage a club in their minor league farm system after the 1951 World Series.

No Politics Being Talked At Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP)—There seemed to be an unspoken agreement on all sides not to discuss politics or world affairs today as the athletes moved into the homelike atmosphere of the Olympic Village.

More than 300 athletes are now living in the village and more are arriving daily. But seldom is a word heard about the Middle East and Eastern Europe situations.

Wednesday night the first Dutch contingent arrived. Three Poles moved into the village Thursday and a contingent of 11 Swedes was due today.

The first Soviets are expected today and the Americans Nov. 8.

There is a special dining room for the Americans.

Told that Americans like steak, the manager said, "We could give them all six steaks three times a day if they like. We're here to give them anything they want. We've had our best cattle especially set aside to provide the meat to feed the athletes at these games and we have a great supply of 14-ounce steaks."

In the dining room for Oriental teams, there is complete Oriental cuisine including ricebowls, small tea cups without handles and chopsticks.

Nationalist China and Communist China will have tables in different rooms.

Tommy Henrich To Join Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Henrich has joined the 'enemy.' For years a fixture in right field with the New York Yankees, Henrich returns to baseball in 1957 after a six-year lapse as a coach under manager Billy Rigney of the New York Giants.

Henrich turned down an offer from the Yankees to manage a club in their minor league farm system after the 1951 World Series.

4 NL Teams Top Million Fans Mark

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four teams in the National League drew more than a million fans at home during the 1956 baseball season but the New York Giants, representing the largest city, finished dead last in fan turnout.

The Giants, who must share fan allegiance with the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees, had a total attendance of only 629,179.

Those figures were contained in a league headquarters report Wednesday which showed the loop, as a whole, drew 8,649,567 fans, the biggest total since 1949 when there were 9,484,718 paying customers. The 1955 league total was 7,674,412.

Milwaukee, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and St. Louis were the clubs which bettered the million mark in home attendance. Milwaukee, with 2,046,331, passed the two million mark for the third straight year. Cincinnati's 1,125,28 marked the first time the Redlegs ever had drawn more than a million.

The only clubs to show decreases from 1955 were New York and Chicago.

Five clubs —Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, New York and St. Louis drew more than a million customers on the road.

4 NL Teams Top Million Fans Mark

CINCINNATI (AP)—Four teams in the National League drew more than a million fans at home during the 1956 baseball season but the New York Giants, representing the largest city, finished dead last in fan turnout.

The Giants, who must share fan allegiance with the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees, had a total attendance of only 629,179.

Those figures were contained in a league headquarters report Wednesday which showed the loop, as a whole, drew 8,649,567 fans, the biggest total since 1949 when there were 9,484,718 paying customers. The 1955 league total was 7,674,412.

Milwaukee, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and St. Louis were the clubs which bettered the million mark in home attendance. Milwaukee, with 2,046,331, passed the two million mark for the third straight year. Cincinnati's 1,125,28 marked the first time the Redlegs ever had drawn more than a million.

The only clubs to show decreases from 1955 were New York and Chicago.

Five clubs —Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, New York and St. Louis drew more than a million customers on the road.

CHS Kittens Wreck WCH, Finish 2nd Perfect Season

Circleville High School's Kittens completed their second straight undefeated season yesterday by dumping the Washington C. H. reserves here, 21-6.

In winning, the Kittens piled up several records. First, they clinched the South Central Ohio League reserve championship for the third straight year. In that time, the Kittens have never lost to a league team.

Secondly, it marked the 19th straight game without defeat. There was one tie included in the string, a 6-6 deadlock with Lancaster last year.

The three-year record of the Kittens now stands at 24 wins, one tie and one loss, the lone setback being a 13-9 loss to Chillicothe in 1954.

* * *

IN THURSDAY'S finale here, the Kittens rolled to a 21-0 lead before Washington C. H. finally scored late in the game against second and third-team members.

Three long runs brought all three of the Kitten touchdowns Thursday, Ray Phifer accounting for two of them and Larry Hannahs the other.

The Kittens had two other TD's called back because of penalties.

The first time they got the ball, C.H.S. marched from their own 49 to the Washington C. H. 7, from which point Ted Wellington smashed through the middle for a score. Wellington was called for being in motion, however, and the score was nullified. Washington C. H. then held for downs and took over.

After marking two first downs, WCH was forced to punt out early in the second quarter.

Ray Phifer took the punt on his own 45 and came up with the prettiest run the Kittens have had all year. Weaving in and out behind good blocking, the scatback raced all the way to score.

For the ninth consecutive game, the Kittens got their first point after touchdown in the same manner. Phifer lined up as if to kick the extra point, but instead he received a direct pass from center and passed to Wellington.

* * *

THE SECOND touchdown came later in the second period. With the ball on the WCH 38, Hannahs shot through the line, moved to his right and scored standing up. Wellington ran for the extra point and the Kittens had a 14-0 halftime lead.

Since Washington C. H. did not arrive here until late, the lights had to be turned on for the start of the second half.

Outstanding action in the third period came near the end of the stanza when Ray Phifer got loose around end and scooted 81 yards for a touchdown. An illegal block caused the touchdown to be called back, however, and the period ended with the ball on the Circleville 3.

Quarterback Tom Greeno got the Kittens out of the hole with a 21-yard QB sneak up the middle. Phifer then got the game's third touchdown when he scampered down the sidelines on the same play which had previously been called back. This time, the play covered 69 yards.

Washington's touchdown came with only one minute remaining in the game, when they scored against Kitten substitutes.

After the game, the team celebrated the victory by throwing Coaches Dick Boyd and John Adler into the showers. Several other innocent bystanders were also thrown in, including some varsity players and managers.

Tigers Remember Last Season, Primed To Pounce On Delaware

After last week's victory over Greenfield, the Circleville High School Tigers hope to maintain their winning ways when they meet Delaware Willis in a homecoming tilt tonight on the local gridiron. The kickoff is slated for 8 p. m.

The Delaware crew will come here looking for its first win of the season, having lost seven in a row. In fact, the Delaware men have failed to score in their last five games.

However, the Delaware 11 defeated a highly favored CHS team last year, 30 to 26. The Tigers are determined that the same misfortune will not happen again this year.

Tonight's homecoming contest will mark the last game of the season for the local red and black outfit. Next Friday the Tigers wind up the season in an away game with arch-rival Washington C. H.

* * *

THE CHS squad will be without the services of junior Terry Barthelmas who injured his foot in the Greenfield game. It is the second time this season that the hard-hitting guard has been sidelined with injuries.

Junior Doug McAbee will fill in for Barthelmas at the starting guard post. The other guard slot will be handled by Ron Stucker, with Asa Elsea standing by to back up both positions.

Another change in the CHS lineup will probably see Fred Sines at center. He has played both center and end during the season.

The probable starting lineup for the Tigers is as follows:

Van Camp, Parcher or Garner, end; Shasteen and McClure, tackles; Stucker and McAbee, guards; Sines, center; McClaren and Arledge, halfbacks; Phifer, fullback; and Hosler, quarterback.

Homecoming queen Judy Grooms and her attendants, Anne Steele and Martha Smith, will be introduced to grid fans at approximately 7:30 p. m. Spectators are reminded to be at the gridiron early for the special ceremony.

The popular CHS marching band, led by drum major Susan Stocklen, will be on hand for the pre-game activities.

" 'I am worth $250,000 and I earn $60,000 a year.' Such a statement would not be possible from any European; no one there tells of one's earnings or wealth. . .The American does not hesitate to speak publicly about his worth and earnings. Perhaps this basic difference in approach is the origin of the American misunderstanding of bank secrecy."

Of course, we pay our taxes, as much as we hate them and as much as we all think we cheat a little. Actually, it is astonishing how little Americans do cheat. In fact, if anything the government collections are too tough due to confusions in the law. The European, except the British, does not regard it as dishonest not to pay taxes. Also there have been so many wars and revolutions in Europe that the man of means has to use his head to keep what he has.

That is why this small country, Switzerland, with less than 5,000,000 population has over 400 banks, with 3,000 branches, with a capital of $700,000,000 and deposits of over $7,000,000,000. "This is more than the yearly gross national product of Switzerland, which amounts to $5.5 billion. . . ."

Buddy Payne, North Carolina's right end, and Curtis Hathaway, team quarterback, played on the same team at Maury High School in Norfolk, Va.

Vito DeVito, a seventh grade teacher at Union School in West Haven, Conn., is coaching the Yale freshman basketball team.

Bradley Gridder Leading All Backs

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Jamieson, the Bradley quarterback who's virtually a passing purist, reclaimed the lead in total offense among the nation's small college football backs this week while the usual shuffle continued in other statistical departments.

The sophomore star, on top a month ago but then nowhere to be found among the top five, surged back with a 297-yard total against Drake last Saturday that gave him a season lead of 1,115 yards in seven games. Of that total, 1,003 yards are aerial.

Jamieson tossed five touchdown passes against Drake, a one-game high thus far according to NCAA Service Bureau, giving him the lead in payoff passes with 12.

Offensive Stars Coming From West

CHICAGO (AP)— Football teams west of the Mississippi seem to have cornered the market on offensive stars with one of the brightest a speedy halfback from Utah State.

Led by Jack Hill, who has amassed 90 points for the individual scoring leadership in the nation, western teams captured the top two positions in three offensive departments, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today.

Hill has accumulated his total on 13 touchdowns and 12 extra points to lead his nearest competitor by 20 points. Wyoming's Jim Crawford is runnerup on 10 TDs and a like number of one-pointers.

Gopher Wins Nod As Top Lineman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Persistent Perry Gehring of Minnesota almost ran out of positions but never ran out of patience. His reward today was selection as the Associated Press lineman of the week.

Gehring's smashing end play was credited with contributing vitally to the unbeaten Gophers' 20-7 upset of Michigan Saturday.

It was a major milestone for the Yankton, S. D., native who spent his first season at Minnesota last year walking a treadmill that went from fullback to center to guard but never to the varsity.

Pro Cage League Play Awaited

NEW YORK (AP)—After a sparse opening week schedule of seven games, the National Basketball Assn. swings into fulltime operation Saturday.

The Syracuse Nationals, eastern division leaders with a 2-0 record, will be in Buffalo to meet the St. Louis Hawks, top club in the west with a 1-0 mark.

In other contests, the New York Knickerbockers visit the Boston Celtics, Fort Wayne's Pistons play the champion Philadelphia Warriors and the Minneapolis Lakers take on the Rochester Royals.

Brown, Rosi Due For Ring Match

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Brown and Paolo Rosi, both undefeated this year, clash tonight in a 10-round you-pick-it lightweight bout at Capitol Arena.

Brown, nicknamed the Toothpick because of his skinny structure, is looking for his third straight knockout of 1956 but isn't likely to find the 28-year-old Rosi as easy a mark as his two previous opponents. The Philadelphia youngster finished each of them in one round.

Rosi, a balding Italian now living in the Bronx, has won 22 of his 25 recorded fights, 10 by KO.

CHS Kittens Wreck WCH, Finish 2nd Perfect Season

Circleville High School's Kittens completed their second straight undefeated season yesterday by dumping the Washington C. H. reserves here, 21-6.

In winning, the Kittens piled up several records. First, they clinched the South Central Ohio League reserve championship for the third straight year. In that time, the Kittens have never lost to a league team.

Secondly, it marked the 19th straight game without defeat. There was one tie included in the string, a 6-6 deadlock with Lancaster last year.

The three-year record of the Kittens now stands at 24 wins, one tie and one loss, the lone setback being a 13-9 loss to Chillicothe in 1954.

* * *

IN THURSDAY'S finale here, the Kittens rolled to a 21-0 lead before Washington C. H. finally scored late in the game against second and third-team members.

Three long runs brought all three of the Kitten touchdowns Thursday, Ray Phifer accounting for two of them and Larry Hannahs the other.

The Kittens had two other TD's called back because of penalties.

The first time they got the ball, C.H.S. marched from their own 49 to the Washington C. H. 7, from which point Ted Wellington smashed through the middle for a score. Wellington was called for being in motion, however, and the score was nullified. Washington C. H. then held for downs and took over.

After marking two first downs, WCH was forced to punt out early in the second quarter.

Ray Phifer took the punt on his own 45 and came up with the prettiest run the Kittens have had all year. Weaving in and out behind good blocking, the scatback raced all the way to score.

For the ninth consecutive game, the Kittens got their first point after touchdown in the same manner. Phifer lined up as if to kick the extra point, but instead he received a direct pass from center and passed to Wellington.

THE SECOND touchdown came later in the second period. With the ball on the WCH 38, Hannahs shot through the line, moved to his right and scored standing up. Wellington ran for the extra point and the Kittens had a 14-0 halftime lead.

Since Washington C. H. did not arrive here until late, the lights had to be turned on for the start of the second half.

Outstanding action in the third period came near the end of the stanza when Ray Phifer got loose around end and scooted 81 yards for a touchdown. An illegal block caused the touchdown to be called back, however, and the period ended with the ball on the Circleville 3.

Quarterback Tom Greeno got the Kittens out of the hole with a 21-yard QB sneak up the middle. Phifer then got the game's third touchdown when he scampered down the sidelines on the same play which had previously been called back. This time, the play covered 69 yards.

Washington's touchdown came with only one minute remaining in the game, when they scored against Kitten substitutes.

After the game, the team celebrated the victory by throwing Coaches Dick Boyd and John Adler into the showers. Several other innocent bystanders were also thrown in, including some varsity players and managers.

ATTORNEYS for Frank Tamburello, star University of Maryland quarterback, have filed suit to obtain for him a student's deferment of military service. Tamburello has just been sworn into the Army at Fort Holabird. (International)

Cliff LaRose, Michigan State guard, was the Detroit Catholic Youth Organization's light heavyweight boxing champion in 1953.

Tigers Remember Last Season, Primed To Pounce On Delaware

After last week's victory over Greenfield, the Circleville High School Tigers hope to maintain their winning ways when they meet Delaware Willis in a homecoming tilt tonight on the local gridiron. The kickoff is slated for 8 p. m.

The Delaware crew will come here looking for its first win of the season, having lost seven in a row. In fact, the Delaware men have failed to score in their last five games.

However, the Delaware 11 defeated a highly favored CHS team last year, 30 to 26. The Tigers are determined that the same misfortune will not happen again this year.

Tonight's homecoming contest will mark the last game of the season for the local red and black outfit. Next Friday the Tigers wind up the season in an away game with arch-rival Washington C. H.

* * *

THE CHS squad will be without the services of junior Terry Barthelmas who injured his foot in the Greenfield game. It is the second time this season that the hard-hitting guard has been sidelined with injuries.

Junior Doug McAbee will fill in for Barthelmas at the starting guard post. The other guard slot will be handled by Ron Stucker, with Asa Elsea standing by to back up both positions.

Another change in the CHS lineup will probably see Fred Sines at center. He has played both center and end during the season.

The probable starting lineup for the Tigers is as follows:

Van Camp, Parcher or Garner, end; Shasteen and McClure, tackles; Stucker and McAbee, guards; Sines, center; McClaren and Arledge, halfbacks; Phifer, fullback; and Hosler, quarterback.

Homecoming queen Judy Grooms and her attendants, Anne Steele and Martha Smith, will be introduced to grid fans at approximately 7:30 p. m. Spectators are reminded to be at the gridiron early for the special ceremony.

The popular CHS marching band, led by drum major Susan Stocklen, will be on hand for the pre-game activities.

Sokolsky's

These Days

" 'I am worth $250,000 and I earn $60,000 a year.' Such a statement would not be possible from any European; no one there tells of one's earnings or wealth. . .The American does not hesitate to speak publicly about his worth and earnings. Perhaps this basic difference in approach is the origin of the American misunderstanding of bank secrecy."

Of course, we pay our taxes, as much as we hate them and as much as we all think we cheat a little. Actually, it is astonishing how little Americans do cheat. In fact, if anything the government collections are too tough due to confusions in the law. The European, except the British, does not regard it as dishonest not to pay taxes. Also there have been so many wars and revolutions in Europe that the man of means has to use his head to keep what he has.

That is why this small country, Switzerland, with less than 5,000,000 population has over 400 banks, with 3,000 branches, with a capital of $700,000,000 and deposits of over $7,000,000,000. "This is more than the yearly gross national product of Switzerland, which amounts to $5.5 billion. . . ."

Buddy Payne, North Carolina's right end, and Curtis Hathaway, team quarterback, played on the same team at Maury High School in Norfolk, Va.

Bradley Gridder Leading All Backs

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Jamieson, the Bradley quarterback who's virtually a passing purist, reclaimed the lead in total offense among the nation's small college football backs this week while the usual shuffle continued in other statistical departments.

The sophomore star, on top a month ago but then nowhere to be found among the top five, surged back with a 297-yard total against Drake last Saturday that gave him a season lead of 1,115 yards in seven games. Of that total, 1,003 yards are aerial.

Jamieson tossed five touchdown passes against Drake, a one-game high thus far according to NCAA Service Bureau, giving him the lead in payoff passes with 12.

Offensive Stars Coming From West

CHICAGO (AP)— Football teams west of the Mississippi seem to have cornered the market on offensive stars with one of the brightest a speedy halfback from Utah State.

Led by Jack Hill, who has amassed 90 points for the individual scoring leadership in the nation, western teams captured the top two positions in three offensive departments, NCAA Service Bureau statistics showed today.

Hill has accumulated his total on 13 touchdowns and 12 extra points to lead his nearest competitor by 20 points. Wyoming's Jim Crawford is runnerup on 10 TDs and a like number of one-pointers.

Gopher Wins Nod As Top Lineman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Persistent Perry Gehring of Minnesota almost ran out of positions but never ran out of patience. His reward today was selection as the Associated Press lineman of the week.

Gehring's smashing end play was credited with contributing vitally to the unbeaten Gophers' 20-7 upset of Michigan Saturday.

It was a major milestone for the Yankton, S. D., native who spent his first season at Minnesota last year walking a treadmill that went from fullback to center to guard but never to the varsity.

Pro Cage League Play Awaited

NEW YORK (AP)—After a sparse opening week schedule of seven games, the National Basketball Assn. swings into fulltime operation Saturday.

The Syracuse Nationals, eastern division leaders with a 2-0 record, will be in Buffalo to meet the St. Louis Hawks, top club in the west with a 1-0 mark.

In other contests, the New York Knickerbockers visit the Boston Celtics, Fort Wayne's Pistons play the champion Philadelphia Warriors and the Minneapolis Lakers take on the Rochester Royals.

Brown, Rosi Due For Ring Match

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Brown and Paolo Rosi, both undefeated this year, clash tonight in a 10-round you-pick-it lightweight bout at Capitol Arena.

Brown, nicknamed the Toothpick because of his skinny structure, is looking for his third straight knockout of 1956 but isn't likely to find the 28-year-old Rosi as easy a mark as his two previous opponents. The Philadelphia youngster finished each of them in one round.

Rosi, a balding Italian now living in the Bronx, has won 22 of his 25 recorded fights, 10 by KO.

She Gets 'Refund' In Race Horse Deal

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mrs. Mabel Russell's description of a race horse in which she said she bought a half interest brought her $750 default judgment in common pleas court Thursday.

The horse's name was Beech Line. She said she was told by Russell E. Thomas, defendant in the suit, it was so classy it "could win on only three legs."

"Did the horse ever run?" asked Judge Simon L. Leis.

"The first time out he ran last; he fell down," Mrs. Russell replied, adding:

"The second time out he would have been last, but the other horse fell down."

She had sued Thomas for $5,750. Thomas was not in court. Mrs. Russell said in addition to paying $25 for a half interest in Beech Line, she gave Thomas $425 for expenses.

Convicted Slayer Seeks New Trial

COLUMBUS (AP) — Homer Jack Dean, convicted six years ago for the murder of a Columbus real estate man, has asked for a new trial.

Dean now is in Franklin County Jail awaiting developments. He was released from Ohio Penitentiary Tuesday after it was discovered papers committing him to prison never were signed by the trial judge.

Dean was sentenced in 1950 in the 1947 slaying of Elmo Rice.

Bill O'Neill pledges his help to make Ohio's public school system second to none with the finest of teachers and physical facilities . . . to build a modern system of major highways . . . to inventory our water resources by watersheds and organize a conservation program which will insure every section of the state water all year . . . (1) to build immediately the $75,000,000 of new mental health facilities provided by the $150,000,000 Bond Issue approved last year, (2) to give personal leadership to recruiting top medical personnel for an outstanding treatment, training and research program.

X — FOR U. S. SENATOR GEORGE H. BENDER

Elected Senator in 1954 after 14 years as a Congressman, Bender has a distinguished record of legislative achievement. On Sept. 7, Pres. Eisenhower wrote Senator Bender: " . . . I have commented publicly about this several times, how important it is to our citizens to hold our political parties clearly accountable for management of our government. This can best be done when the Presidency and the Congress are under the same political leadership. With this thought in mind, and especially because of your loyal and effective efforts to advance the cause of good government, I wish you every success at the polls this fall."
